EDITORIAL BRIEFS.

GOVERNOR BEAVER says that Blaine is the man.

FROM the numbers missing it is evident that Ives was not a good book-keeper.

PROGRESS is West Virginia will go rolling on as long as it keeps Wheeling.

THE Democrats in Washington refuse to employ women, because they cannot vote.

PRESIDENT CLEVELAND is to be invited to visit the Pacific coast. He will accept all the invitations he receives.

ISAIAH V. WILLIAMSON is Philadelphia's richest man. His wealth amounts to $30,000,000. He has passed his 85th year.

IT is asserted that 200,000,000 pounds of tobacco is chewed annually in the United States. That would be about three pounds to every soul.

THE watermelon season is at its height and the city markets are overstocked. For all that, the melon continues expensive in Bellefonte.

LIGHTNING from a thunder cloud struck a big electric railway dynamo in New York on Thursday and knocked all the electricity out of the machine.

FROM all reports it is quite safe to predict that the fall season in business circles will be a busy one. This is the sort of intelligence which is pleasing to the mass of the people.

A fashion writer says that dresses are to be full this winter. We prefer them full. We would like to know what satisfaction it would be to a young man to have an empty dress on his knee.

IT is stated that Hon. George V. N. Lathrop, minister to Russia, is to be transferred to England. If so, why not put Phelps in Lathrop's place, a few miles further away from America?

MARYLAND Republicans have nominated Walter P. Brooks, of Baltimore, for Governor; R. B. Dixon, of Falbot county, for comptroller; General Francis A. Miller, of Montgomery, for state attorney.

THE old German woman who stopped a train on the Burlington route in Colorado within a few feet of a dangerous bridge should be substantially remembered as a life-saver. It would have been a pleasure to have published her name.

To add to Cleveland's happiness when he visits Atlanta, Ga., the unrepentant Rebel, Jeff Davis, is to be brought there to meet him, and Henry W. Grady will introduce them. How much honored the chief citizen of the Republic will be to meet one who is still rebelling against it!

Why are You a Republican?

We hope all members of the Republican party will be able to give a reason for their faith. It is the only party that now exists the members of which were expected to do this. Democrats are democrats mainly because their fathers belonged to that party. As a rule, they cannot tell the principles of their party, nor give a sane or intelligent reason for belonging to it.

Not so, however, with Republicans. It is a party made up of the flower, chivalry and intelligence of the country, which any citizen can look to and support with pride. The party is based and built up on principles which shall endure as long as time shall last.

For this reason it affords us regret to notice that some so-called friends of the party are endeavoring to stultify and belittle it, offering the most insane and disgraceful reasons for supporting it. They even go so far as to base a reason for a Republican vote on the fact that a bed bug was seen in the jail or a louse found a warm nesting place in the thick wool of some prisoner.

Such arguments are a disgrace to any party and we hope they will not be given serious consideration. Why are you a Republican? Why are the young men who are to poll their first votes Republicans? Why is the most intelligent portion of this Nation allied with the Republican party? For various reasons, principal among which are these:

The Republican party freed the slaves and thus relieved the country of that incubus of disgrace.

The Republican party preserved the Union of States.

The Republican party ruled during the most perilous period with unexampled ability.

The Republican party restored a national credit which had been destroyed by Democrats.

The Republican party advocated and still advocates protection to American labor.

It is progressive and takes the most advanced stand on every question.

It does not depend on any quibble or misrepresentation for its capital. It appeals to the thought and consideration of sensible, conservative people.

It would scorn to succeed by the methods of intimidation practiced in the Democratic southern States.

A vote for the candidates of the Republican party will be a vote for patriotism and love of country. Don't imagine that our great party depends for success on some of the trifling matters sometimes urged by thoughtless and indiscreet people.

Hot Words from a Priest.

A member of the Woman's Christian Temperance Union sends us the following dispatch, dated August 22, from Jersey City, N. J., with a request to publish:

At St. Peter's church, Jersey City, yesterday morning, Rev. Father Walker, S. J., preached a breezy sermon on the subject of temperance, in which he took occasion to denounce in strong words physicians who prescribe liquor and morphine for their patients. The priest said that doctors make drunkards of thousands by prescribing whiskey and beer for them when sick.

"It is shocking to think of the havoc and desolation that are being spread in this manner," said Father Walker, indignantly. "I have been called upon to administer the sacraments to persons who were actually drunk from the effects of morphine. The use of this drug is most pernicious, and its effects are most abominable and fatal. Once a person becomes addicted to it, there is no cure for him, and he sinks lower and lower in his degradation until at length he fills a grave of shame. The doctors are to blame in the majority of such cases. They should not, under any circumstances, prescribe either whiskey or morphine, because it is only opening the way to ruin for the victim, and, besides, it is not necessary, as other medicines will answer just as well. I want to give you some advice relative to this subject. Whenever you find that a doctor has prescribed either morphine or whiskey to any member of your family dismiss him at once, and, if you like, you may tell him that I said so. Such a doctor ought to be turned out of doors. Several of the best and most respectable physicians in New York city have told me that they never prescribed either of these abominable remedies, nor have they ever found it necessary.

"They told me that the use of morphine and whiskey is of recent introduction, and that no conscientious doctor would resort to it. Yet hundreds of doctors do advise their patients to use these detestable drugs, in spite of the fact that they are destructive and deadly. If a doctor were to prescribe either morphine or brandy for a friend of mine, I'll tell you just what I would do: I would ask that doctor to present to me his bill, and when I had paid it I'd tell him to leave my house and never return. In my experience as a priest I have seen children scarcely able to walk crying for brandy. They had drunk it with their mother's milk, because the doctors had ordered the mothers to drink brandy and beer. Could anything be more sad or distressing? Mere babes who were confirmed drunkards in so far as the craving for drink makes one a slave to alcohol.

A Cleveland Banner out of Place.

A strange and stirring spectacle was seen in Wheeling, West Va., the other day. It was the occasion of the reunion of the Army of West Virginia. Five thousand Grand Army men were present—Republicans and Democrats.

In every place there are indiscreet, hot-headed politicians, and Wheeling contains such an one in the person of the editor of the Register. His office is located on the line of parade, and he took occasion to suspend from the middle of the street, in front of his office, a portrait of President Cleveland. Below the portrait were the very appropriate words: "God bless our President; Commander-in-chief of our army and Navy."

But these words became blasphemy when we reflect the motive which prompted the editor to put that banner where he did. We do not believe that his heart echoed the sentiment. We do not believe he meant to petition the Power Divine to bless the president; but that he suspended it there merely as a taunt to the Grand Army. It proved a source of some trouble and excitement. The large majority of the veterans, having no particular reason to entertain feelings of great love for the President, left the middle of the street and paraded on the pavement to avoid walking beneath the banner which to them was so obnoxious.

Perhaps the motive of the editor was to cause a riot. If so, it failed. We are really sorry that all the Grand Army men did not march straight ahead and show the contempt they felt for the action of the editor. It is best for them at all times to either treat President Cleveland with respect or to utterly ignore him. It is never advisable to show disrespect by public action at such a time.

We cannot believe that the friends of Cleveland are helping his cause by endeavoring to force him upon the Grand Army boys. The effect must be to occasion more resentment against him.

Fearless of the Militia.

In marked contradistinction to the policy of the British Government when a company of American militia desired to make a tour of Great Britain is the action of the United States authorities in the matter of the international exposition which is contemplated at Chicago. The Secretary of State has said that no objection will be raised against the friendly visit of expert soldiers from any nation. So far as the populace is concerned, a regular American welcome will be extended to guests wherever they may hail from. America stands on no technicalities in such matters. While the nation is abundantly able to take care of itself in war and make the march of hostile soldiery a trail of bloodshed, it is also equally able in times of peace to welcome the visitor who comes to compete in manly sports or give us a theme from which new ideas may be formed. America has nothing to fear and therefore will be glad to see martial hosts from other countries.

GENERAL TOM EWING, Samuel S. Cox Ex Senator Joseph E. McDonald, Senator Voorhees and W. Bourke Cockran are announced as among the speakers who are to stump Ohio for the Democratic ticket this year. They are all rank Free Traders, and therefore they are true exponents of Democracy. Frank Hurd, the "boss" Free Trader of them all, will be among them and lend his voice to the advocacy of the doctrine which means oppression to laboring men.

PRECISELY how to suppress Samuel J. Randall is still the burning question with certain Democrats, with the solution as far off as ever. Only a few more days remain to decide on the way it is to be done, but the will to do is growing every hour, it is said. Where there is so much will there must be a way, says the bold Brigadier.

The Winning Ticket.

The county ticket nominated on Tuesday afternoon was unusually excellent. Look at the names whom every citizen in the county is expected to vote for.

DANIEL RHOADS, of this place, is perhaps the best known citizen in the county. His name is the synonym for all that is good and true. He will make an ideal associate judge.

CYRUS GOSS is one of the county's best Republicans. His qualifications for the position of treasurer are unexcelled. His home is in Ferguson township.

ROBERT COOKE, JR., of Howard borough, will be a tower of strength to the ticket. He is as indefatigable in whatever he undertakes to do, he has elements of the greatest strength and popularity and his fealty to the party has never been doubted. As sheriff he will purify the office of all the odium which now attaches to it, because of Democratic carelessness.

J. C. HENDERSON has been tried for the office of commissioner and has filled it with an ability which is acknowledged. He will be chosen to succeed himself. With equal promise, which will be fulfilled, Mr. John Decker one of Potter township's noblest Republican sons, has been given the nomination and should be elected.

Mr. T. M. Gramley is a member of a Republican family where Republicans are not numerous. That he secured the nomination is to his credit. He is bright and intelligent. Vote for him for register.

JOHN M. HARTER'S nomination for recorder was by acclamation. There is not a Republican in the county who should not endorse the nomination with a vote in November next.

S. T. Gray and Andrew Gregg for Auditors complete this excellent ticket.

Can It Be?

When we look into the past of this country, twenty-six years ago, we are astonished that such a state of affairs could be. Everything seems to be peaceful and quiet at present. That internecine war existed then and that it was waged during five years is truly astonishing. To think that the inhabitants of this favored country could have gone to war with each other almost passes belief. Yet all this was actually so. Sometimes brother took up arms against brother. Friends were torn asunder in this way. It was a strange strife, yet abundantly justifiable—yes, even necessary.

Have events so changed in two decades as to make such another war impossible? We really believe so. At present it is impossible for us to conceive of such a thing. For two sections of country each of which is supposed to be controlled by civilized, Christian centiments to differ so radically on any one question as to involve a clash of arms appears inexplicable. In every question one side must be true, the other false. If it is misunderstood for a while, surely those who are at fault should be willing to listen to reason and anxious to learn the truth. If all are as earnest as they should be to find out the actual facts they can do so.

Present peace and prosperity, and prospects of its perpetuation may well cause us to rejoice. Our one aim should be to cultivate the most cordial relations between sections. Let sections give up selfishness and consider the common good.

PRINCE FERDINAND begins to think that he has been made a fool of either by himself or his friends. He went to Bulgaria at his own risk, without encouragement from the Powers, and without the sanction of the Porte. He finds that his personal friendship with the Czar is not sufficient to gain his political support, and the Powers are generally of opinion that while his election was legal his assumption of authority is not in accordance with the treaty of Berlin. The usual hopes are indulged in that diplomacy may be able to unravel the tangle, but there can be no successful cloaking of the fact that a storm-cloud is settling over Europe, and Bulgaria is a very possible seat of disturbance.

CANADIANS are working up considerable enthusiasm in favor of a commercial union with the United States. We find but little sentiment expressed in its favor on this side of the border. A commercial union without political union gives but little promise of being either permanent or satisfactory. When the Canadians are willing to haul down the Cross of St. George and permit the Stars and Stripes to float from the lakes to the north pole there will be a solid basis on which to negotiate.

Trade and Business.

The following resume of the business situation appeared in the Philadelphia Press of Monday:

Stocks fell steadily in Wall Street last week, the decline on Friday lacking only a conspicuous failure or two to turn it into a panic. A reaction is expected and confidently predicted during the coming week. It is certainly "due". The decline of the past three months has gone on under encouraging circumstances. These have grown less, but there is still abundant reason for an advance in railroad shares in the actual business of the companies. From now on, however, their reports of earnings will be less favorable, the first sign of this appearing in the Pennsylvania report for July. The banks, it must be also remembered, are vigorously weeding out all questionable collateral. The events of the last week leave them no option and the bank statement still less. Gold imports are ordinarily in exchange for merchandise exports. This year they are not, but in exchange for stocks, bonds and other indebtedness incurred in the realty, mining and railroad expansion of the West and Southwest. By result the gold imported runs through New York like a sponge and seeks the West.

This has disappointed those who expected our gold imports to have the usual effect. For the first time in our recent commercial history we are importing gold with the "so called" balance of trade against us. In 1886, with exports and imports even for the first seven months of the year, $35,000,000 of gold went abroad, in 1885, with exports $51,951,000 larger than imports, a little gold, $654,000, was exported, and in 1884, when exports were only $10,243,000 greater, $28,993,000 in gold went over the seaboard to take care of the foreign balance. This contrast becomes still stronger if silver is included. In the first seven months of this year merchandise exports have been $34,201,000 in excess of imports; but $522,000 net imports of gold came in, and they have continued heavy through August, although merchandise imports have continued to be in excess of exports. In all, $4,350,000 has been received at New York since August 1. Yet, the New York banks hold $7,000,000 less specie than at the opening of the month. The money has all been absorbed by operations in the interior. This is the universal report. Of the shipments $2,000,000 is said to have gone to San Francisco, where the collapse of the wheat deal finds the banks with their balances out in realty speculation at San Jose and elsewhere. In Boston, loans are $8,900,000 less than last year at this date, while deposits are at the same figure, the reduced loans being due to the absorption of capital in new enterprises, stocks and bonds. Money has been tight here for a month. At Chicago an unusual demand for money is reported from tributary points In a word, there has suddenly arisen all over the land that sudden demand for lonable capital, when no one appears to have it to loan, which wide speculation always produces soon or late, particularly late.

SECRETARY LAMAR'S decision in the case of the Altantic and Pacific railroad will be received with entire satisfaction by the people of the United States. While it restores to the people more than twenty-five million acres of land, it does no injustice to the company to whom this land was officially donated. The latter received it upon certain conditions. With these it has failed to comply; it does not even claim to have done so. The company having failed to earn the land under the law donating it, the Government claims it back again It will have a good effect. Some other forfeited lands ought to be dealt with in the same way.

THE crime of bribery finds no supporter in the Governor of the State of New York. His prompt action in convening an extraordinary term of the Supreme Court to determine whether Jacob Sharp was illegally convicted has effectually disposed of the stay of proceedings. This action was only taken as a cover to get Sharp out of the penitentiary, and to the District Attorney of the city of New York and the Governor is due the praise for keeping a noted criminal just where he belongs.

Poetry.

JALIPER LOP'S MISTAKE.

Jaliper Lop was a sun-burnt king,
Who dined on preachers and that sort of thing;
Who welcomed revivals that came that way
With feasts which lasted many a day,
In cannibalistic wealth and ease
He dwelt on an isle in southern seas,
And two or three thousand wives he had,
Which, for a small monarch, was not so bad.

These wives were Jaliper's joy and pride;
He cared for naught in the world beside.
He'd have only those in court, he swore,
To whom he'd paid court in the days of yore,
The women made and enforced the laws,
And labored well for their country's cause.
Wives seemed his hobby in life, for when
One wife would die he'd marry another one.

He kept this up till he found one day
He'd squandered his fortune all away.
For wives all his money and lands he'd spent,
And yet with the purchase he seemed content.
The sole apprehension which made him sad
Was the fear of losing the wives he had.
And he'd saved his money and tended to biz
Till all the wives in the isle were his.

Alas, how short are the joys of earth!
How little we know what we're truly worth,
A peddler happened to come one day
To the isle where Jaliper Lop had sway.
The peddler had brought a barrel of beads,
And other things suited to Jaliper's needs.
When the monarch saw them, they turned his head;
And thoughts of his wives were quickly sped.

A ruined man is Jaliper Lop,
With his passion for wives he couldn't stop;
A cheerless and lonely life he leads,
And all on account of that peddler's beads.
The men who his subjects once had been
Were all provided with wives again,
While Jaliper roams through foreign climes,
A widower several thousand times.

AMERICAN SONG BIRDS ABROAD.

These song birds from America, they come across the sea
To carrol in our operas and take the upper E;
Time was when dark Italians held all the lyric stage;
Time was when fair-haired Teutons were the operatic rage;
But now La Belle Americaine has come across the foam
To take the British dollars back to many a western home.
Nevada's here and Nordica and Broch and Minnie Hauck,
And others who but lately sang in Boston and New York.
Hastreiter, Dottie, Engle, too, and Russel and Van Zandt,
And brilliant Marie Decca to America we grant;
Miss Thursby, Henschel, Osgood, without Sterling and Hope Glenn,
Could fitly claim America's most eulogistic pen.
How is it that Americans have this great gift of song,
That fast they come, and faster still, to join the carrol throng?
One fancies that each baby soul in infancy divines
The music of their mighty streams, the wind harp in the pines;
And then we hear in London town—and who would grudge the fee?—
The message Mississippi brings from mountain unto sea? —London Punch.

FLOWER MEMORIES.

I think of the roses I wore one day
When life was merry and sweet,
And children called me the Queen of May,
And knelt at their playmate's feet;
But the mirth died out with the sunset light,
When the young ones went to rest;
And the flowers were left in the summer night
To fade on the earth's green breast.

I think of the rose he gave to me
When love was a bliss new-born,
And hill and meadow and daisied lea
Were fresh with the touch of morn;
But short was the life of that love of ours,
And sharp was the sting of pain
When I look on a spray of withered flowers
That never might bloom again.

I think of the roses, dainty and fair,
I bought at a London stall;
Their fragrance scented the morning air,
Their smile was a smile for all;
I carried them straight to a darkened room
Where a child lay sick and tired,
And the life they gave with their tender bloom
Was the joy my soul desired.

Oh, not for the roses of spring that shed
Their dew on my childish brow,
And not for the love-gifts, early dead,
My spirit is longing now!
For sweeter far are the flowers we give
Than those which the hand can hold;
And blossoms gathered for others live
When the giver's heart is cold.

Our Story Teller

CLYDE'S "OLD LAWYER."

It was a bleak night in November, the snow had fallen so fast and heavily that the pavements were completely covered. Men were hurrying home to their warm fire-sides, while women were out only through necessity.

On L — street stood a pleasant home, from which the gaslight streamed through the windows and gave cheer to the waysiders passing without. In the pleasant library, within, sat a young girl in front of the glowing grate, awaiting her father's return from business. Very bright and pretty she looked in her warm crimson dress, leaning lazily back in the comfortable arm-chair reading.

Clyde Tremor was very pretty, having large brown eyes, which often displayed the imp of mischief, who resided in their brown depths; her hair was brown and wavy, combed back from her forehead and made into a coil at the back of her shapely head. Her mouth was curved like Cupid's bow, and when parted displayed a set of pearly teeth; but her nose was decidedly "turned up," to use a common expression, and she imagined it made her anything but pretty; on the whole it only gave a piquant expression to her face, without which her face would not have been one-half so charming and pleasant.

This Clyde Tremor, the heroine of my story, is no different from other girls of the period. She had her likes and dislikes as other people have, but her one particular dislike was lawyers. Ever since she could remember, she had had an aversion to them, and she vowed she would never marry one.

Presently, as she sat reading, her quick ear discerned her father's footsteps in the hall, and springing to meet him, exclaimed, "Papa, I am so glad you are here! Where have you been so long!"

"Tut, tut; Clyde, I've been no longer than usual. You are hungry, that is why you are impatient."

"Why, papa! I am hungry, and tea has been waiting such a long time."

Helping her father divest himself of his great-coat, they were soon seated in the library at the table, where tea was spread for two.

Mr. Tremor said laughingly, "Now, my dear, you can appease your appetite.

Clyde laughed in reply, and pouring his tea inquired if he had any news.

"News," he repeated thoughtfully, "I believe I have. Let me think a moment. O, a lawyer from the West called at my office to-day; he is the son of an old friend, so I invited him to dine with us to-morrow.

"A laywer!" exclaimed Clyde in dismay, "Papa, you know I detest them!"

"Well, Clyde! I am surprised. But, my dear, this one is not detestable at all. I like him very much."

"Is he young or old? handsome or the reverse?" Clyde asked quickly.

Mr. Tremor laughed and said, "that's a woman's question; they always desire to know whether they are handsome or not! Well, he is near by thirty, and rather handsome, I think."

"Near by thirty," echoed Clyde, "why he must be quite an old man, or at least, middle aged."

Clyde did not give much thought to the gentleman, and when she did, it was to think of him as a middle-aged man with hair streaked with gray, piercing black eyes, covered with spectacles, and who was gruff in manner. It was very foolish in her, but young girls often make similar mistakes.

As she dressed for dinner she thought "I will make myself as plain as possible. Pshaw! what does he know of dress?"

Having finished her toilet, she ran gaily down the stairs, looking quite charming in spite of her resolution to the contrary. Entering the library, she stood before the fire waiting for her father and his guest. At last glancing at the clock, she exclaimed impatiently, "why don't papa and his old lawyer come?"

At that moment a rap sounded at the door, she started in dismay at having spoken her thoughts aloud. Opening the door, she saw before her astonished gaze, a tall, well-built man, who bowing politely, said in an inquiring tone, "this is Miss Tremor?"

"It is," replied Clyde, "but you are a stranger to me."

In reply he handed his card on which she read, Ralph Aubrey, LL. D.

Clyde recollected at once that this was the name of their expected guest, but surely this handsome gentleman could not be he! He seemed to read her thoughts upon her countenance, for he smiled and said, "I am your father's friend who is to dine with him this evening. Is he not here?"

Clyde colored and said hastily, "O, I beg your pardon! Come into the library until papa comes, he will be here presently."

They were soon seated by the fire talking pleasantly. Clyde had then the opportunity of observing Mr. Aubrey. She was surprised to discover his youth. No middle aged man was this, with spectacled eyes, which were dark and rather grave. No silver threads mingled with his raven locks, and his voice in speaking was well modulated and musical. His whole appearance bespoke the gentleman he was. Clyde was pleased with her observations, but she said to herself, "if only he were no lawyer, he would be quite charming."

Ralph spent a pleasant evening, and enjoyed Clyde's sprightly conversation almost more than her father's pleasant chat. Taking his departure rather late, he promised to call again.

The next morning at breakfast, Mr. Tremor asked Clyde how she liked the old lawyer. Clyde blushed and laughed, saying, "he would do very nicely if he were no lawyer. You know, papa, I dislike them."

"Confess, Clyde, that you like Mr. Aubrey very much."

Clyde did not reply, but making an excuse escaped from the room.

Mr. Aubrey called quite frequently at the Tremors. He seemed to enjoy Clyde's society exceedingly. As for Clyde, although she scarcely acknowledged it to herself, liked him more and more. Unconsciously he grew so dear to her and was so necessary to her happiness that she was startled one day when she awoke to the fact. Mr. Aubrey announced his intention of going away on business, not to return for two or three months. Thinking of his long absence, and that she would not have the pleasure of his delightful conversation, she became aware of what he really was to her. She thought in dismay that she had given her heart, unasked, to this lawyer. A lawyer! the idea was too absurd, when she had said again and again she would not love one. And his feelings for her, what were they? she inquired of herself. Indifference, surely, or he would not have gone away perhaps not to return for a long time, without speaking one word of love for her. He had heard her call him an "old lawyer," the first eve of their acquaintance; perhaps he had not forgotten and would not forgive her rudeness.

Clyde covered her face with her hands as she thought of this and said, again and again, she would be ashamed to meet him when he returned.

How inconstant are ye, women! When a woman says she won't, she means she will, and is always sure to do it, too.

Here is Clyde in love with all her heart with this lawyer. A lawyer! whom she had said she would not marry. But, bah! we know so much of the inconstancy of woman that we are sure she will marry the one she says will not.

A few weeks later Ralph called, he had returned sooner than he had expected, and his first thought was to call on the Tremors. Clyde was alone when he came, sitting in the library where he had first met her.

She was so surprised to meet him after his absence that she uttered no word. He took her hand and said, "why, Miss Clyde, have you no word of welcome for me?"

"I—I am glad to see you, but very much surprised. We did not expect you so soon. I am sorry papa is not here."

"I saw Mr. Tremor in his office, Miss Clyde, so you see that I am not in the least disappointed at his absence. I came to see you, but methinks you are not glad to see me."

Clyde blushed, not daring to give utterance to the joy of seeing him. She could only say, "Indeed, Mr. Aubrey, I am glad to see you."

"As glad as I am to see you, do you think?" he asked, looking into her blushing and downcast face.

Receiving no answer he took her hand again in his and said gently, "Clyde, in the few months that I have known you, I have learned to love you, and during my absence first became aware of the truth. Will you make me happy by saying that you will try to love the 'old lawyer?'"

Very low and blushing came the reply, "I do, but—but Mr. Aubrey, please do not allude to—to that."

"To what?" Ralph asked, catching her in his arms, "to the 'old lawyer?' I will not if you say, Ralph, I love you. Will you, darling?"

In a lower tone and covered with blushes, which she hid on his shoulder, she said it, thereby promising to marry the "old lawyer."

Demanding Half a Million.

Talmadge A. Lambert, a young Washington lawyer, who represents himself to be the son of David Lambert, who helped to organize the Territory of Minnesota, has begun proceeding to establish his title to 478 acres on the shores of Lake Phalen. His property is valued at at least $500,000. The proceedings are directed against Washington M. Stees.

David Lambert located three land warrants October 17, 1849, and the following November he committed suicide and instead of locating the warrants in the name of Rev. Dr. Andrew Bell Patterson, of Princeton, New Jersey, for whom he acted as agent, he put them in his own name. An effort was made to have proper correction made in the government entries, but for some reason it was never made. A deed was made out accordingly and duly recorded, and Dr. Patterson was placed in undisputed possession of his property in August, 1852. Dr. Patterson then sold it to Judge Lambert in September, and Judge Lambert sold it to Allen Pierce in 1854. Allen Pierce sold it to Dr. Davis, of Mississippi, from whom Washington Stees purchased his 158 acres in 1867.

The one proposition upon which young Lambert bases his claim is that the Probate Court had no equity jurisdiction and no power to order the transfer of the land to Dr. Patterson. It has been supposed that David Lambert had no children when he died, and there is said to have been an affidavit in the hands of attorneys from a nephew that he died without issue.

Smokers and Brownstone Fronts.

"How many cigars do you smoke in a day on an average?" inquired one commercial traveler of another, as they strolled along Michigan avenue one evening last week.

"Perhaps ten," replied his friend.

"Ten cigars a day at 10 cents each would amount to $1.

"That's about the figure."

"One dollar a day; 365 days in a year—hem! How long have you been smoking?"

"About twenty years."

"Twenty years! Three hundred and sixty-five dollars a year, compound interest. Why, friend, do you know that if you had not smoked you might have owned one of those brown stone fronts across the street!"

"Likely enough. You are not a smoker, I believe?"

"Never had a cigar in my mouth."

"Nor drink?"

"No. I don't know the taste of liquor."

"And which one of those brown stone fronts do you own?"

"Have you an honest city government here?" he asked of a Detroiter whom he fell into conversation with on the city hall steps. "We have, sir." "No charge against the aldermen?" "None that amount to anything." "You believe them honest, then?" "I do, sir" "Perhaps you are a contractor?" suggested the stranger. "No, sir, I am not. I am one of the aldermen!"

A Wise Dog.

They were telling dog stories. The doctor was there and it came to his turn.

"I knew a dog once that had sense. This dog belonged to a friend of mine who used to take him out with him once in a while. One night his master took him down town. The master went in to call on a friend and the dog was left outside. It was all right for an hour or two. There was lots of fun with boys and Chinamen and other dogs, but by and by the boys and the Chinamen and the other dogs went home and this dog was left alone. He slept for a little, then he whined for a little, then he went to sleep again, then he woke up mad and began to bark. An empty champagne bottle was thrown from a window above and just missed his head. When it had broken in pieces he went up and smelled the pieces carefully. He sat himself down patiently, and was sound asleep when the door suddenly opened, and before he knew it he felt somebody wiping his feet upon him, under the impression that he was a door mat. Although disguised in liquor he knew the voice that said, "Goori, ole boy." It was his master.

"His master stepped down stairs, went in by a little side gate, under the impression that he was going to the street, and began walking over the flower beds. The dog followed. Then the master gave a lurch and fell over the rosebush, and after raising himself sufficiently to take off his boots and throw them over the garden wall, he lay quietly down and went to sleep. The dog barked in his ear, but he only said: "Allri', Maria; I'll get up in a minit,' and went to sleep again. The dog kept watch till the milkman came along, who recognizing him and having to drive up that way, took him home.

"Well, a week or two later the man took the dog with him and went to the same friend's house, and left the dog outside. The dog didn't wait. He simply trotted away. But, although his self-respect demanded the desertion of his master, his fidelity demanded some thoughtfulness. He strolled around until 12 o'clock. Then he went home and made a row at the door. The servant let him in and he made straight for his mistress' room. He woke her up and pulled her dress over to her bedside, and she knew there was something wrong. She got up and dressed. The dog led her into the yard, and began tugging at a long board that was lying there. She got assistance and they went off, the dog leading. Just as the master was singing a lively song he heard a knock at the door of his friend's room. He opened it. There stood the dog, his servant, his wife and a hired man, and on the floor they had a stretcher."

"Doctor, is that true?"

"True as any dog story you ever heard."

"Mother," said the 5-year-old demon just as Mrs. Oldboy was preparing to leave home on a six-weeks' visit, "what's become of the fur you used to wear last winter?"

"Locked up, Willie; why?"

"Say, has wings growed on it?"

"No; why do you ask such silly questions?"

"Cause I heard pop say this morning he would make the fur fly while you were away."

The trunks were at once unpacked, and the look that came into Mrs. Oldboy's face made the clock strike 3.

A Kansas editor wrote an item to the effect that "the press is a growing power," but the compositor made it read, "the press is a growling power," and when the editor came to read the proof he concluded that the altered paragraph fitted the vile contemporary across the street so well he let it remain that way, adding by way of explanation: "This refers to the foul sheet that is doing the county printing at such brigandish prices."

An Iowa editor closes a rhapsodical eulogium of his State in the following style: "When the roll-call is sounded on the judgment day, and the heavens are rolled together as a scroll, and the reverberations of wrecked and ruined worlds peal forth the fiat of eternal rest, I want to hang my weary bones on the gallery rack of immortality and register in four-line pica as a man from Iowa."

PARTIES claiming English estates say the object of their organization is to force the present holders of the estates to prove their right to them or give them up. This is putting the cart before the horse. The occupant only has to remain quiet until the claimants prove their title.

She Knew His Habits.

"Seen anything of my husband?" demanded a Sioux Falls woman one day this week of an officer in front of the postoffice.

"No, ma'am; has he disappeared mysteriously?"

"Naw! he came home down the same as usual this morning, but dinner has been ready an hour, and it's all getting cold, and he isn't back yet."

"You have been to his office, I suppose?"

"No, sir, I haven't. I've no time to fool away looking for him there. Say, is there a sick horse at any of the livery stables?"

"Not I know of."

"Been any dog fights around lately?"

"Haven't heard of any."

"Any ten-cent show or target gun in town?"

"All gone, madam."

"Any man in a wagon selling brass jewelry?"

"Guess not!"

"No fire anywhere in town?"

"No."

"No pools being sold anywhere on some horse-race, or trial going on in a justice court?"

"Not any!"

"No man selling medicine on the street, no circus bills just pasted up anywhere, or no woman walking a tight rope?"

"Not one."

"Well, that's peculiar—I can't see where John can be."

"There's a couple of Frenchmen with a tame cinnamon bear down on Philips avenue, madam."

"That's it, that's it—I didn't think to ask about tame bears! While the potatoes are getting cold as a stone he is down there making up a purse of 75 cents to see the bear climb a tree! I'll go right down—you watch and see if he isn't up to the house inside of ten minutes!"

Dreaming to Some Purpose.

J. Milton Akers writes from Pine Island, Minnesota, to the Christian Advocate as follows: "In the winter of 1859-'60 the writer was teaching school in Bedford county, Pennsylvania, and boarding with a substantial farmer named Anthony Felton. The family was one of remarkable ingenuity. One night after school the conversation turned upon difficult problems in mathematics. I mentioned one that my brother had sent me, which I considered quite intricate. The question was as follows (I reproduce from memory:) 'Sold 5,000 ells Flemish of cloth for $21,250, and gained as much per yard as one-eighth of the prime cost of an English ell. What was the prime cost per yard, and of the whole piece?' On repeating the question my host told me promptly it could not be done. I repeated it several time for him during the evening, till he had its conditions well fixed in his mind. I assured him I had solved it by algebra, of which he knew nothing. The next morning, on coming from my room, he said: 'I can tell you all about the problem now.' Upon asking how he had reached the solution, he said: 'I dreamed it out.' I smiled incredulously, for I had no faith in such straight dreaming I said: 'Let me see your solution?' and to my astonishment and delight he produced an arithmetical solution that was a marvel of analytical simplicity. I then asked more particularly about the dream He said: 'An old man, to whom I had at one time gone to school, came to me in my dream and seeing I was troubled about something asked the cause. I repeated the question to him and told him that I had told the master it could not be solved. The old man said to me, 'It makes no difference what you told the master; it can be worked.' And then he told me how to do it.' And he remembered it so distinctly that he solved the question by the instructions received in his dream."

A Dying Mother Made Happy by the Prattle of a Child.

Boston Courier.

A young mother was hopelessly ill, but quite unconscious of her condition. One afternoon her physicians held a consultation, and afterward announced the sad fact that she had but a short time to live to the husband and sister of the patient. The four exchanged opinions as to the wisdom of telling her, and were quite unmindful of little Edith, the only child of the dying woman, five years old, who was busily playing with her dolls, apparently unconscious of what was going on about her. But, in a few minutes, the little Edith left her toys, walked slowly upstairs and went directly to her mother's room. With the aid of a chair she placed herself on the bed at her mother's side, when she kissed the wan cheek and asked in low, tender tones:

"Mamma, are you 'faid to die?"

The mother was startled by the question and hesitatingly asked:

"Who told you?—do they think——"

"No matter, dear mamma, you needn't be 'faid at all; hold my hand tight like this; shut you' eyes close and I will stay by you, and when you wake up again you will be where 'tis all light."

The eyes were closed as directed, the two hands tightly clasped for a few minutes, and when the members of the family re-entered the room the child looked up and said:

"I helped dear mamma to die and she was not 'faid to die at all."

His Memory was Good.

"And you pretend to say," remarked a lawyer to a witness, "that you remember the exact words this man said to you ten years ago?"

"I do."

"Well, if my memory serves me, I met you at Saratoga about five years ago, and I should like to know if you can swear to any expression which I then made."

"I can."

"Now, Mr. J., I want you to remember that you are under oath. Now, under oath, you swear that you can quote with great accuracy a remark I made to you at Saratoga five years ago?"

"I can."

"Well, what was it?"

"You met me in the hotel corridor."

"Yes, quite correct."

"And you shook hands with me."

"Naturally I did."

"And you said to me: "Let's go and take something."

The crier of the court had to call silence for ten minutes, and the lawyer confessed that the witness had a remarkable memory.

How Women Use the Telegaaph.

A Hartford man, whose wife was going abroad, asked her to telegraph him a word or two letting him know of her safe arrival in New York. In a few hours he received the following message, "collect."

DEAR GEORGE: Arrived here safely at fifteen minutes after six. Had a perfectly lovely trip. Don't worry about me, I'll get along all right. And take good care of yourself. Be careful about taking cold this damp weather. Be sure and have the house open and aired as often as possible. Remember what I told you about your socks and shirts. Don't forget to keep the basement door locked. Write every day. I'm sure I'll have a lovely time. So good in you let me go. You must come over after me in August. Forever and ever yours, MAMIE.

An hour later Mamie was pained to receive the following reply to her "word or two":

Don't cable anything from Liverpool. I am a ruined man if you do.

"I-I guess you don't understand. I am selling—"

"Certainly. There, take that seat by the window. I am delighted to see you."

"Permit me to explain. This book, glorious book, is complete in forty-five volumes, at $5 a volume, and I am the agent for it."

"I am sorry you brought only one volume. Can you get the rest soon?"

"Oh yes, but—"

"By the way, there's the dinner bell. Stay to dinner, won't you?"

"I-I beg pardon. This is very strange. Am I wake or dreaming?"

"Yes, the house don't look very pretty, does it? You see this is a private insane asylum, and I am one of the patients."

Many are Called for, Few Returned.

A Philadelphia umbrella manufacturer says there are about 2,500,000 umbrellas and parasols sold in this country every year. America has gone ahead of other nations in manufacturing them, and not more than 10 per cent. are imported. Sheffield umbrellas, however, still lead the world. Domestic makers have to figure very closely, and were they to raise prices 10 per cent. the country would be deluged with foreign material. It is a remarkable circumstance, says the Philadelphia Press, that only one person has ever made any money on any patent on an umbrella. That one man is old Sammy Fox, of Sheffield, Eng., undoubtedly the best-known umbrella maker in the world. He made the first paragon frame, and he got a royalty from every one made for 14 years. An umbrella goes through many hands before it is sold. No one firm makes an entire umbrella. Their ribs and braces are made in one factory, the sticks in another, and the little catches that slide along the stick in still another, while the silk is imported. Fashion has a great deal to do with the business.

Wanted it Rolling.

Home Seeker (to real estate man)—"And you say that the farm will just suit me?"

Real Estate Man—"Most assuredly."

"I want the land to be rolling, you understand?"

"Yes, this land is rolling."

Several weeks later—Home Seeker (to real estate man)—"You are a miserable fraud and—"

Real Estate man—"Why, what's the matter?"

"Matter! why, confound you, ten acres of my farm went into the river last night."

"I'm sorry to hear it; but didn't you tell me that you wanted rolling land?"

"Yes."

"Well, then, you got it. You didn't say which way you wanted the land to roll. Don't be in a hurry. Draw up a chair and sit down a while."

As to Railroad Ties.

The railroad tie question is every day becoming more serious and the experiments with a view to solving it more interesting. One has been made on the Boston and Providence Railway, with fifty ties of ten kinds of wood, five of the kinds creosoted and five in the natural state. The woods used were ailanthus, spruce, hemlock, larch, Southern pine, white oak, elm, birch, chestnut and catalapa. The ailanthus was the only kind which rotted, whether creosoted or not. Southern pine was too soft, as was the catalpa, which was ground to a pulp under the sixty-five trains a day which passed over it. The white oak stood the service well, but there was the objection that it held the spikes too tightly and made a difficulty when the rails were to be changed. The creosoted elm and birch are said to have given the best results.

A Lady's Perfect Companion.

PAINLESS CHILDBIRTH, a new book by Dr. John H. Dye, one of New York's most skillful physicians, shows that pain is not necessary in childbirth but results from causes easily understood and overcome. It clearly proves that any womam may become a mother without suffering any pain whatever. It tells how to overcome and prevent morning sickness, swelled limbs, and all other evils attending pregnancy. It is reliable and highly endorsed by physicians everywhere as the wife's true private companion. Cut this out; it will save you great pain, and possibly your life. Send two cent stamp for descriptive circular, testimonials and confidential letter sent in sealed envelope. Address FRANK THOMAS & Co., Publishers, Baltimore, Maryland.

—Frankie Graham, son of Mr. Benner Graham, was unfortunate on Wednesday afternoon at the time he expected to entertain his numerous young friends. In the exaberance of his youthful spirits he fell from the baluster of the stairway, breaking his collar-bone. Disappointment and pain made it a disagreeable evening for Frankie, and we hope he will soon be well again.

Notes About the Game.

By all means, there should be a back stop on the base ball ground.

Didn't Brouse catch a sky-scraper, nicely, with only one hand?

Linn, the second base--man, played all over the field.

Until Stewart's hand was disabled he caught perfectly, not one ball passing him.

Brown, on first base, caught several balls that would have passed most players. Once he had to jump for the ball, but he alighted all right on the base and the batter was out.

Crider knows how to run the bases.

It would be well for many of our boys not to try to make too many bases on a ball. On more than one occasion they were put out nicely by endeavoring to go too far.

Hoffman distinguished himself in catching flys and also did well the few minutes he was behind the bat.

Order of Tonti.

The Champion Pumpkin Vine.

Jared Houser is a lad only ten years of age. He is a son of R. H. Houser, of Houserville. Early in the season he placed a sweet pumpkin seed in the earth, which began to grow and grow until it became the wonder and admiration of all who beheld it. It has developed to such dimensions that thirty-eight pumpkins are now growing upon it. Or, at least, there were thirty-eight, but pumpkin pies were so tempting that two of the pumpkins have been taken off and used. Mr. Houser is a true blue Republican and challenges any Democrat in this or any other county to equal or excel it.

—Another term of court is ended and we have words only of praise for the admirable and able manner in which Judge A. O. Furst and the entire court have discharged their duty. Of course, it is to be expected that those in judicial authority will do right, and it may seem superfluous to call attention to it, but we do so with pleasure. Remember that the measure by which to judge such things is not the satisfaction which they afford the public, but the clearing of the innocent, the punishment of wrong-doers and the obedience which is rendered to the law.

—Clement Dale, Esq., was one of the attorneys Friday morning on a trial in which the Pennsylvania Railroad Company was defendant, and consequently he had important legal opposition. Mr. Dale's manner of examining witnesses is truly admirable. He seems to have the subject entirely mastered and knows just what he desires to bring out. Consequently, he asks rapidly with no tiresome pauses, between questions, which are apt to try the patience of the court and all concerned.

THE MOST SCIENTIFIC AND SUCCESSFUL BLOOD PURIFIER. Superior to quinine.

Catarrhal poisoning gave me dyspepsia, and nervous dyspepsia and prostration followed. I got so reduced I had to be carried up and down stairs. Everybody thought I would die. Three months' use of Kaskine gave me new life. I am now perfectly well. I owe my recovery and life itself to the use of this great and efficient remedy.—Mrs. E. A. Comstock, 139 East 71st St., N. Y.

"Four years of malaria and dyspepsia greatly reduced my wife's strength and destroyed her health. A trip to Florida and every known remedy could not restore her. I heard of Kaskine, and four months' use broke up the malaria, cured the dyspepsia, restored her strength, and six months repaired the waste of four years.—Chauncy I. Titus, Albany, N. Y.

Letters from the above persons, giving full details, will be sent on application.

Kaskine can be taken without any special medical advice. $1.00 per bottle.

MANHOOD
How Lost, How Restored!
Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure of SPERMATORRHŒA or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, IMPOTENCY, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc., also, CONSUMPTION, EPILEPSY and FITS, induced by self-indulgence, or sexual extravagance, &c.
The celebrated author, in this admirable essay, clearly demonstrates from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain and effectual, by means of which every sufferer, no matter what his condition may be, may cure himself cheaply, privately and radically.

Fighting the Indians.

GLENNWOOD SPRINGS, Col., Aug. 27.—The arrival of a courier with a report of a fight with the Utes in which one white man was killed and several seriously wounded, created a profound sensation here. When the news arrived Governor Adams, who was on his way to meet Gen. Crook near Meeker, for the purpose of holding a peace pow-wow with Colorow, and who leaves here at daylight, was making a speech at Hotel Glennwood. He was speaking on a resolution which had just been presented him on behalf of the citizens endorsing his action in ordering out the militia. An officer of the post came into the room, and walking up to the governor whispered something in his ear. The governor's countenance grew pale and after a moment's pause he told the gathering of what he had just heard, and almost immediately left for General West's headquarters for consultation.

The news gives a very black eye to the peace pow-wow, as it is believed that a fight is being waged with unrelenting fury. Ward, the man who is reported killed, was a prominent citizen of Grand Butte. He was a deputy under Kendall. It is believed that the officers opened fire against the Utes upon their arrival on the scene when near Meeker for the purpose of holding a peace pow-wow with Colorow.

A special from Rangely, Col., 10 a. m., by courier to Glennwood Springs, via. Meeker, says: The fight occurred at a place six miles west of Rangely, in a little canon beyond the mountains. The Indians had planned an ambush, but the scouts discovered it and retreated in time. The Indians then opened fire, and Major Leslie, who commanded the scouts, which were augmented by Major Hooper's Aspen volunteers, returned the fire from behind the rocks. The Indians showed themselves and fought desperately. Upon the first concentrated fire of the troops two Indians fell and one white man, Dr. Dunmont, of Meeker, with Kendall's band, was wounded. For two hours the battle raged incessantly, then the Utes retreated to timber and only skirmish shots were fired during the day.

This continued until 11 o'clock last night, but no one was injured. Jack Ward, one of Kendall's men, was shot down during the first part of the fight. The whites saw eight Indians dragged behind the line. The Indians were dead. There were five whites wounded.

MORE ABOUT THE INDIAN WAR.

DENVER, Col., August 28.—The Ute war situation, as far as can be learned, is unchanged since yesterday. Word has been received that 600 Utes are camped near Thursday's battle field and are held back by two companies of colored regulars. It is known that the Indians that took part in the fight are True Utes, White River, Uintah Utes, and Uncompahgres, and that if necessary over 1600 reinforcements can be raised from this tribe. The Uncompahgre Indians are a very hot headed race and if any of their people were killed on Thursday, it is feared the entire tribe will take the matter up and precipitate the State into a long and bloody war. If the Indians do not attack the whites at Rangely before the arrival of Governor Adams and General Crook to-morrow there are hopes that the trouble will be settled. Lieutenant Folsom, of Aspen, who was wounded seriously during the engagement, died Friday morning.

South Carolina Quaking.

COLUMBIA, Aug. 28.—A little after 12 o'clock yesterday morning an earthquake shock occurred here, accompanied by the usual roar and lasting some seconds. At four minutes of 5 o'clock a second and heavier shock was felt. The motion was undulating.

CHARLESTON, Aug. 28.—This city was again visited by a very perceptible shock of earthquake at an early hour yesterday morning. There appears to have been no damage done.

SUMMERFIELD, S. C., Aug. 28.—Quite a severe shock of earthquake was felt here early yesterday morning. No damage reported; but people who had retired for the night were awakened.

AUGUSTA, Ga., Aug. 28.—At daybreak yesterday morning a severe shock of earthquake was experienced in this city and locality. No damage was done, but there is much uneasiness among the inhabitants.

Presidential Straws.

KANSAS CITY, Aug. 26.—The Times publishes its answers received to inquiries sent out through Kansas and Missouri as to presidential preferences. In Missouri 270 answers from democrats were received. Of these 251 were for Cleveland, 3 for Thurman, one for Wade Hampton and the rest scattering. The republicans sent 261 answers, of which 125 were for Blaine, 77 for Sherman, 41 for Lincoln and the rest scattering. In Kansas 326 democrats answered as follows: Cleveland 306, Thurman 7, Hill 6, the remainder scattering. The republicans sent 262 answers, of which 181 for Blaine, 86 for Sherman, 44 for Lincoln and the rest scattering.

A Burglar's Fate.

NEW YORK, August 20.—"Jimmy" McDevitt, a well known burglar and a nephew of "Jimmy" Elliott, the prize fighter who was killed by "Jerry" Dunn in Chicago a few years ago, met with a horrible death this morning while trying to escape from a store where he had been discovered. The store that McDevitt broke into is situated at 9 and 11 White street. Messrs. Weise Bros., importers and manufacturers of cloaks and garments, occupy the upper lofts. McDevitt was discovered in their store, on the second story, where he had gone to commit a robbery.

Max Recht, a porter in the employ of Messrs. Weise Bros., opened the store about 7.30 o'clock this morning and half an hour later heard a commotion and went to see what caused it. He found the burglar there and locked the door, making McDevitt a prisoner, and then sent for a policeman. When the officer appeared on the scene McDevitt started for the front of the building, and without hesitation sprang headforemost through the plate glass window. A large sign outside the window impeded his descent and he fell upon the shattered glass, which almost cut his body in two. He was rescued from his position, but died ten minutes afterwards without uttering a word. On the officer's searching the premises a confederate of McDevitt's was found and captured. He is known to the police as "Rats."

Excitement in Havana.

NEW ORLEANS, August 29.—Advices received from Havana, via Key West, indicate that that city is on the verge of a revolution, occasioned by the recent acts of Captain-General Marin in taking possession of the custom house and placing the officials under arrest. The city is in charge of regular troops, and the situation daily becomes more desperate, recalling the events attending the massacre of the medical students in 1871. A reign of terror, prevails, and it is expected that Havana will be declared in a state of siege. Already several conflicts have occurred between the troops and civilians, resulting in the killing of some and the wounding of others. The captain-general has issued his proclamation calling on the rioters to maintain order, and severe measures will be adopted to uphold the law. Daily conferences are held with his military chiefs and measures adopted to prevent a general uprising, which is imminent. The colonels of all volunteer regiments were called together at the Plaza and ordered to disarm their forces; otherwise they would be held responsible for what might occur. The volunteers, who are opposed to Marin, and encouraged therein by political leaders desirous of his removal, have joined the rioters. Several meetings have been held in the park, where cheers of "Viva Salamanca" were given with cries of "Down with Marin!"

Sharp will Know Soon.

NEW YORK, August 27.—There was no new move to-day by the lawyers for the prosecution or defense in the case of Jacob Sharp, and the matter will rest until Wednesday, the 7th of September, next, when the argument on appeal will be heard by the extraordinary session of the general term, which Governor Hill has ordered to be convened on that date. The court will consist of Justices Daniels Barnard and Brady. The counsel for Sharp feel that they have been completely checkmated by the district attorney in the matter of the extraordinary session of the general term, and have given up their intention of asking Judge Potter to admit Sharp to bail until after the appeal has been argued. In the event that the decision of the lower court is affirmed it is unlikely that an application for a further stay will be asked for until the court of appeals can hear the case in January. It was learned to-day that Joseph H. Choate, James C. Carter, and Austin Fox, members of the bar association, have asked the district attorney to indict Lawyer Osborne E. Bright for conspiracy for his connection with Sharp in securing the Broadway franchise.

The Base Ball Brotherhood.

NEW YORK, August 28.—Every league club was represented at the first meeting of the Base Ball Players' brotherhood, held at Earle's hotel to-day. The matter of contracts was fully considered and it was the sense of the convention that a new form of contract is necessary. With regard to the "reserve rule" most of the delegates thought that it should stand with a few minor changes. The question of buying and selling was discussed, and it was agreed that a clause should be inserted in the contract which would provide that in all cases of release the release should be unconditional. In case of the disbandment of a club the players ought to be released from all obligations. The brotherhood resolved to assist the league in breaking up the dissipation among players, and suggested as a means to that end that a member should be fined for the first offense $25, for the second $50, for the third $100, and if the offending member committed a fourth offence in a season he should be suspended and liable to be blacklisted.

Cause of the Failure.

HUNTINGDON, August 30.—The following circular dated Philadelphia, August 29, and signed by Robert Hare Powell & Co. and Robert Hare Powell Sons & Co., explains the cause which produced the assignment, and which has been handed us for publication:

"The inability of the firm of Charles E. Pennock & Co., to meet its paper maturing to-day, of which we are this morning apprised, has made it necessary for us in the interest of our creditors and ourselves to make an assignment. We have accordingly conveyed our property and claims to the Guarantee Trust and Safe Deposit company of this city. The indebtedness of the two firms is estimated at $1,578,000. The assets are estimated at over $4,000,000.

"We do this at a time when we might at some loss and risk continue our business, but we believe it wiser to place our affairs in such a shape as to secure not only those to whom we are indebted, but also to ourselves a valuable property. Our object is to secure an extension, and this, if granted, will enable us, we believe, to pay all that is due, principal and interest. Our paper has not been protested, and our wage accounts are settled up to last settlement date.

"We propose to send you a statement exhibiting our assets and liabilities in a short time. As our property is extensive, in use at many places, and should be appraised by disinterested experts, we cannot expect to have a detailed description of it prepared at once, but the work is progressing, and we will, we think, have one ready in twenty days. In the meantime we herewith report to you the preliminary estimate made up from our books to-day.

"We are advised that you are by our present action more fully protected than you could be in any other way, and we ask your indulgence for the time necessary for us to make the exhibit above proposed, and a proposal of terms of settlement."

Rescued at Sea.

HALIFAX, N. S., August 29.—The pleasure steamer Mohican, Captain Timpson, owned by the Clarks, of Paisley, Scotland, arrived here at midnight from the Clyde, after a terrific passage of twelve days. She encountered two fearful hurricanes from the south, one last Monday and the second on Friday.

During the latter she had a portion of her port bulwarks crushed in, lost her jibboom and suffered other damage.

At noon yesterday the Mohican fell in with the ship Lillian, of St. John, N. B., Captain Whitney, which had been rendered a complete wreck during the previous day's storm. She was dismasted and waterlogged. Her bulwarks were all broken in or swept away, and every boat on board had either been carried off or crushed into atoms.

The crew of seventeen men, beside Captain Whitney's wife and the stewardess, were clinging to the helpless ship and signaled to the Mohican that they wished to be taken off. A fierce wind was blowing and a high sea was running, but a boat was launched from the steamer, and after five hours' perilous work the wrecked crew was rescued.

The men and women, one by one, had to jump into the water and then be pulled on board, and the same experience was repeated in transferring them from the boat to the Mohican. The Lillian was abandoned about 300 miles east of Halifax. She was from Rotterdam, bound to New York with a cargo of empty oil casks. She had been out forty days at the time of the disaster.

Vigorously Resisting Eviction.

DUBLIN, August 30.—The eviction war has begun in earnest on the O'Grady's estates at Herbertstown.

The bailiffs began the attack to-day by attempting to dislodge the widow Crymins, whose shanty was firmly barricaded.

The inmates resisted the attack with determination; they threw stones at the bailiffs and poured boiling water on their heads. The attacking party then procured crowbars and began making a hole in the wall, while some clambered to the roof and tried to effect an entrance in that way. The evictors were repulsed four times.

The police, of whom there are three hundred on hand, then tried their powers, but were severely scalded and forced to retire. A combined attack of police and bailiffs was then made, and the joint rush resulted in entrance being made to the house. The inmates consisted of four women and five men, who were arrested.

The people sang "God Save Ireland," and the crowd was nearly frantic. The police were obliged to use their batons vigorously to retain possession of their prisoners.

The Governor Among the Grangers.

CARLISLE, Pa., August 30.—The second day of the Granger's picnic at Williams' grove fully sustained the promise of the opening day. Ten thousand people is probably a safe estimate of the attendance. Governor Beaver arrived here at noon from Harrisburg and this afternoon gave a practical talk on "The Essential Conditions of Practical Farming in Pennsylvania." He advocated the substitution of bulky products demanding home market for the cereals, the encouragement of manufactures and the taxing of corporations on the basis of property value instead of stock.

Briefs.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., August 20.—A special from Brodhead, Wisconsin, says the foundation of the Brodhead roller mill was undermined on account of quicksand early yesterday morning, and the first floor collapsed, carrying down the machinery, two thousand bushels of grain, five hundred sacks of flour, and a large quantity of feed. One hundred barrels of flour was ruined and the wheat is almost a total loss. Some of the flour and feed will be saved in a damaged condition. The loss is estimated at between $15,000 and $20,000. The mill was owned by Stephen C. Pierce and operated by Roantree & Holcomb.

GALVESTON, August 28.—A special from Beaumont says: An ice cream festival was held last night at the residence of George Carroll for the benefit of the Baptist church. After partaking of the cream about 60 persons were seized with symptoms of poisoning. No one has as yet died from the effects of the poison, though two persons are reported to be still unconcious and several others seriously ill. The only way the poisoning can be accounted for is the use of a new ice cream freezer.

WILKESBARRE, August 27.—Three fatal cases of fever have occurred in Plymouth this week, and another epidemic such as prostrated nearly every resident of the place in 1855 is feared. Owen Jones died Monday, T. T. Clark on Wednesday and May E. Thomas last evening. The physicians claim they died of regular typhoid fever and believe that it was contracted by the exposure of the contents of cess pools hauled through the town.

POTTSVILLE, Aug. 29.—A week ago Geo. A. Ely, docket clerk to the county commissioners, suddenly and unaccountably disappeared. No discrepancy in his accounts appearing it was generally supposed that a female was at the bottom of his absconding. Subsequent investigation has, however, revealed the fact that Ely has been engaged in forging and negotiating county bonds, one of $500 having been traced to him to-day. There is no clue to his whereabouts.

DENVER, Col., August 29.—A telegram from Meeker, by way of Elenwood says: "Information has been received here that at Thursday's battle with Colorow there were five whites killed instead of two and four wounded. Seven Indians and two squaws were killed and five wounded. There has been no fighting since Thursday, but over six hundred Indians are camped within six miles. The Indians are ready to fight at the least provocation."

VICTORIA, B. C., August 29.—It is rumored here that McGarigle has been for several days a guest at a Victoria hotel, disguised and registered under an assumed name. A gentleman who knows him well is responsible for the statement and adds that McGarigle sailed yesterday on the steamer Parthia for Hong Kong, accompanying Carter Harterson. Another friend of McGarigle accompanied the party, but it was impossible to ascertain the name.

HARRISBURG, August 29.—George Hoffman, a clerk at the Harrisburg foundry and machine works, went into the office of Dr. Ritchie this afternoon and requested him to pull an aching tooth. A short time after it was discovered that the ether which the physician had administered to alleviate the pain had caused Hoffman's death. The deceased was highly esteemed.

READING, Pa. August 29.—A large number of the inmates of the county almshouse, whose population is three hundred and fifty are afflicted with a virulent form of cholera morbus from which Isaac Fiering, aged 53, and Peter Faust, aged 54, have died. The directors have decided to make some changes in the sanitary regulations of the institution.

UTICA, N. Y., August 28.—A passenger train on the West Shore railroad collided with a freight train near Fort Byron to-day. The express messenger was killed and engineers Malloy of the passenger train and Ludwig of the freight were injured.

NEW YORK, August 29.—It is stated on good authority that Henry George's friends have subscribed $15,000 for the establishment of a paper to be called the Evening Standard. It will make its appearance on September 15.

LIMA, O., Aug. 29.—Two freight trains on the Fort Wayne road collided here last night. The engines and twenty-five cars were wrecked. No one was injured. The conductors of both trains had orders to take the main track.

AUGUSTA Ga., August 29.—A slight shock of earthquake was felt here about 1.30 o'clock last night.

ADDITIONAL LOCAL NEWS

Philipsburg Again.

MRS. L. W. Munson has returned from a visit to her excellent son, L. T. Munson, at Bellefonte.

Bigler camp-meeting was well represented from our "burg" on Sunday last.

Typhoid fever is now raging in our town to an alarming extent.

The local editor of the Journal now wants street cars in our town, but not old slow horse cars—oh, no; that's too slow for Harry. He wants them run by electricity. Harry, we are afraid you will be in your "little grave" ere that time comes to pass.

At S. S. Crissman's drug store can be seen a green cucumber that measures 19½ inches. It was raised by James Chudleigh, on a farm near this place. Who says Centre county is no place for vegetables?

Jim Maurey says the fellow who said he was going into the furniture "biz" is a fabricator of the deepest dye.

Brenton, Duncan & Barns are now having the wall made for their large new business house on Front street. It will be one of the largest in town. This is verily an enterprising firm.

Editor Bair attended the Editorial Association picnic at Erie last week. Web was more than delighted with the trip and says it helped his hay fever considerably.

Harry Shontz, of Philadelphia, is home on a pleasure vacation.

The Altoona base ball club didn't come over. Ah, no.

Our base ball club downed the Huntingdon team to the time of 14 to 3, not long since. When Huntingdon comes up here thinking that they have a lot of "boys" to play with, they will get left every time. The return game will take place down there.

"Jeff" says, he wants longer time in which to get a girl before the next picnic. They say he was left——at home, all on this account. Ask "Jeff," he'll tell you it ain't so.

A man by the name of Benj. Hallenback, was killed in Pardee mines, the other day.

SOME ONE.

—On the last day of the Newton Hamilton camp meeting the exercises were such as to prove especially interesting to Bellefonters who were present, because of the prominent participatien in the services of at least one of Bellefonte's accomplished young ladies. For instance, we copy from the Philadelphia Press the following: This was the last day of Newton Hamilton camp and a large crowd took advantage of the cheap excursion rates. At 10 o'clock Dr. B. B. Hamlin preached from the words: 'Behold I send the promise of my Father upon you, but tarry ye in the city of Jerusalem until ye be indued with power from on high.' The burden of the sermon was that this power is love descending from the Father through the Son. Fully 2500 people were present at the children's meeting. Addresses were made by K. M. Kinslow, Rev. James Curns and Rev. M. K. Foster. The most enjoyable feature was a vocal solo by Miss Fanny Twitmire, of Bellefonte."

—On Saturday afternoon Mr. Garbrick's ice wagon met with an accident at the corner of Lamb and Ridge streets. The crossing at that place is in a bad condition—in fact, it don't deserve to be called a crossing at all. The terrible jolting which the loaded wagon received as it passed over the ruts caused the tongue to break and the wagon might have continued on down the hill, with disastrous results, but fortunately it did not. The DAILY NEWS has more than once called attention to this place and also a similar place further down Lamb street toward Allegheny. It would be well if they could be put in condition to show that they are part of a habitable town; at present they would disgrace an isolated country road.

And every moment brings distress,
Then TARRANT'S SELTZER proves a friend
That Druggists all can recommend.

—On Saturday the illness of Mr. John Sweeny, of Pleasant Gap, was announced. We are now called upon to record his death, which occurred on Sunday morning. He was over 80 years of age and his death was in consequence of a general breaking down of the system. He was a well known and very interesting old gentleman. His memory was retentive and he often related interesting facts of early history of that section to his relatives and friends which were always listened to with eagerness. His funeral occurred Monday afternoon; the interment being in this place.

—There was a hearing in Lock Haven on Tuesday afternoon in the case of James Kline and Luther Schaffer, on the charge of robbery, and they were bound over for court. One of the watches found on Luther Shaffer is identified as belonging to an individual who was robbed. Essec Kline and "Bone" Johnson have not yet been given a hearing. No hearing has yet been had on the charge of having committed the Culvey murder.

THE GIANT OF WONDERLAND.

Coming of P. T. Barnum & Co.'s Monster United Shows to Bellefonte.

The death of Jumbo, and the fact that "grim-visaged War" is displaying his "wrinkled front" ominiously across the water, have compelled a postponement of the Great Barnum and London Shows' proposed European tour. Millions of children, and, we suspect, as many more grown-up lovers of tented pastime, on this side the sea, will be glad of this, and we could make no more generally acceptable announcement than the one that the Greatest Show on Earth will visit Bellefonte on Friday, Oct. 14.

The colossal exposition of features and programme of acts this year includes the indescribably strange Hairy Family from the Court of Burmah; an artificial lake, in which the famous and courageous Capt. Paul Boyton gives his wonderful aquatic exhibitions; the three biggest circuses in three separate rings, two largest menageries in two tents, a wonderful museum of rarest living prodigies, a huge elevated stage for the display of Olympian games, and a Roman hippodrome, with a course nearly half a mile round, presenting an international circuit of the races and spectacles of ancient times, contrasted with the speeding contests of the present kings of the turf—all exhibited under canvases of such enormous size that they would swallow up all other menageries and circuses combined. Prof. Ward, of Rochester, N. Y., has also preserved to us lamented Jumbo, a doubly greater wonder for beside Jumbo, as natural as life, and still robed in his own ponderous hide, stands his prepared skeleton—a most prodigious and strange spectacle. Another huge and rare elephantine feature is "Alice," Jumbo's famous "wife" and widow. The glories and sensations of the vast and splendid free morning street parade will alone attract tens of thousands, to join, heart and soul, in the contagious excitement and hilarity of Barnum's holiday.

Inquiring for the Pamphlet.

We have received the following letter:

WARREN, O., August 24, 1887.

MR. EDITOR: Dear Sir—In your paper of recent date were an account of Centennial services held in the Bellefonte M. E. church and a statement that the services would be printed in pamphlet form. Will you please inform me where they can be had. I am a grandson of Thomas McClellan, who built the third house in Bellefonte. He resided above the Boiling Springs, where I was born. I am a great-grandson of Robert Pennington, of whom honorable mention was made in the Centennial history connected with the services. I am connected with the Sankeys and Weavers. I must say that I am pleased that my fathers served their generation so well that a history of Methodism is not complete without mention made of them.

Respectfully yours,
R. P. MCCLELLAN.

We made inquiry concerning the proposed pamphlet and learn that it has not yet been printed. When it is completed for sale and circulation we shall be glad to inform our interested subscriber of the fact, and where it may be obtained.

Reduced Rates to Pennsylvania State Fair.

The thirty-third annual exhibition of the Pennsylvania State Agricultural Society will be held at the Fair grounds, near Germantown Junction, Philadelphia, September 5th to 17th, inclusive.

The exhibition will be unusually comprehensive, and will embrace manufactures, machinery, implements, apparatus, produce, live stock, and miscellaneous displays drawn from every branch of industry. The premium list aggregates $30,000, and this with the magnificent facilities offered by the new grounds will insure a fine display. The grounds are located at Germantown Junction, on the Pennsylvania Railroad, with direct communication from every portion of the Pennsylvania System.

The Pennsylvania Railroad Company will sell excursion tickets to the Fair grounds from all stations on its main line and branches, September 5th to 17th, good to return until 20th, at reduced rates.

—In the Reformed church Sunday was observed as a day of thanksgiving for the bountiful yield of farms, gardens, fields and orchards now so plentifully spread around us. The pulpit and altar were tastefully decorated with sheaves of wheat and oats, corn, fruits, vegtables, flowers etc. In the morning, the pastor, Rev, W. H. H. Snyder, discoursed from the text announced in this paper, on Saturday, viz., "Thou shalt observe the feast of tabernacles seven days, after that thou hast gathered in thy corn and thy wine."—Deut. 16:13. His evening text was the familiar one in Galatians 6:7, "What soever a man soweth that shall he also reap." He treated both subjects in the stronges possible manner, drawing from them truths which all could comprehend and which would prove of inestimable profit if made the guide of our lives.

—The late John M. Bell, of Mt. Union, Huntingdon county, whose death occurred only a few weeks ago, held a policy in the Brooklyn Life Insurance Company. On Saturday, R. M. Magee, Esq., the State agent, handed to Mr. Bates Bell, his son, a check for the full amount of the policy. It would not be due for one month yet, and this was only another instance of the prompt payments made by this favorite and excellent company.

Washington Letter.

(From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, D. C., August 29, 1887.

When President Cleveland was inaugurated, the old Bourbon element of this District came solidly to the front. They had contributed liberally to the campaign fund and anticipated a prompt recognition of their services. They had been in the social and political background, lo! many, many years, and now that a change had come, every old fossil that had a political existence previous to the Republican regime, heard the resurrection trumpet and came forth demanding and expecting a good fat office. A more greedy, ravenous and shameful rush for place was never witnessed. Delegations and deputations in the interest of the numerous aspirants besieged the White House day and night and expectations were at high water mark. Two and a half years of the Administion, have passed away and what is the local result? Only three of the many respectable positions belonging to the District are filled by "home talent" (?) A more disappointed crowd cannot be found anywhere, and the air is thick with the maledictions they heap upon Cleveland and his Administration. Democracy here means patronage, pure and simple, and nothing else, and the talk of Cleveland's re-nomination receives a most chilling response. Of course, the Republicans sympathize with their discomfiture and offer every balm of consolation within reach, but nothing but office will appease their anger, and as the months roll on and the days of grace shorten, the violence of indignation increases. The delegates from this District in the next Democratic National Convention will not be Cleveland men. Mark that.

The recent Republican State Convention, in Ohio, Pennsylvania, Iowa, and Maryland, have caused the Administration to scratch its head and roll its eyes in wonderment at the remarkably clear, concise and truthful manner in which the aforesaid Administration is arraigned before the public. They see the handwriting on the wall, and it requires no extraordinary Daniel to give a correct interpretation. They had been nursing the delusion that there were some old animosities lurking in the Republican ranks that would show themselves in a marked degree when State Conventions presumed to indicate Presidential choice, and anticipated and predicted more or less of a rupture. The harmony which has characterized these conventions, the good spirit which pervades the entire party, and the determination evinced to redeem the country from the hands of shams and pretenders, is a little more pointed than they expected. They dread the expose of their shamful abuse of civil service; their bungling, imbecile management of the finances; their cowardly foreign policy; their cruel treatment of the country's defenders; their vacillating management of the public domain; and their utter and hopeless failure to inaugurate a single measure for the relief or advancement of the people. There is not a single thing in this administration, thus far, that can be pointed to with a degree of American pride or party satisfaction.

The program is pretty well completed for Cleveland's electioneering trip, and soon he will be 'swinging round the circle', on public exhibition. This game was played by Andy Johnson, when there was some plausible excuse for it on the ground of the exciting and unsettled condition of affairs at the close of the war. But it proved a most ignominious failure. It was tried again by President Hayes, who, you remember, became a prominent attraction at various county agricultural fairs. There is no record that procedure contributed very materially to his popularity. The managers of the coming exhibition intended to thrust Cleveland onto the various Grand Army re-unions this fall and thus atone for his numerous pension vetoes and unmistakable sympathy for the rebel leaders, but, whether wisely or unwisely, that child was strangled at the St. Louis affair, and hence the change of programme and the working up municipal invitations. I know of no Republican who objects to this arrangement, and as a simple party expedient rejoice that the Democracy are still maintaining their record of stupid blundering.

Quite a large number of changes will take place in the Interior and Treasury Departments on the first of September and the month following. A good many of the old clerks against whom not a complaint can be made except that they are Republicans, have been asked to resign and have already taken the hint and put in their letters, while others will be dismissed outright on the ground of the necessity of reducing the force. All this is a pretence and sham and only designed to make places for new and partisan appointments. Mr. Cleveland is compelled to yield to the enormous pressure for office, and there is abundant reason for supposing a complete surrender now to the ravenous greed of party.

It Was Not a Success.

The Pittsburg Dispatch is responsible for the statement that an application for the dissolution of the Pennsylvania Railroad Beneficial Association had been made. The association was started a little over a year ago as an experiment. Membership was at first compulsory with all employes of the road, but such a storm of opposition was raised that the compulsory clause was cut out by the company, and an employe could join or not, just as he pleased. It was run on the mutual benefit system. A percentage of each man's wages was put into a general fund each month. Out of this fund sick benefits and death policies were paid. But the plan did not take remarkably well. Almost all the employes went into the association at first because they supposed that it would be polite for them to do so. It soon became evident, however, that the company did not intend to discriminate against those who were not members, and many drew out. Very little interest has been taken in the association lately, and now it is to be dissolved. A member of the organization, when asked about the dissolution, said: "I don't know a thing about it. If the application has been made to court, it was done by the company, and not because the employes demanded it. The plan has not succeeded very well to my mind, and I suppose the company has decided to give it up." The officials of the company could not be reached at that hour, and the disposition to be made of the money now in the treasury could not be learned.

English Sympathy for Ireland.

The marked manifestations of sympathy for Ireland among the mass of English voters is one of the significant signs of the time. The great majority of the English people are always in favor of fair play, and the trades organizations, which include the majority of voters, have been thoroughly stirred up in consequence of the attempt of the Government to suppress the Irish National League. They are fully aware that what is now put forth as ample justification for resorting to such extraordinary measures as the suspension of the habeas corpus and the right of trial by jury as against the National League, may be urged against other classes of British subjects with as little reason and justice.

Mr. Gladstone and his co-laborers have prepared the people for protest and resistance, as they are ready to respond wherever asked to give moral aid and support to those who have been placed under the ban of the Crimes act. Monster meetings are now being held by English workingmen, and the revolution which Mr. Gladstone has been predicting seems near at hand. The campaign has already opened, and when the people are again afforded an opportunity to vote for members of Parliament there will be surprises in store for the Tories which they have not hitherto dreamed of. The English people are exceedingly jealous of their liberties.

At the Luxenburg Palace the Emperor and Empress of Austria spent their honeymoon, and it is there again that their matrimonial differences, which for the past years have been so notorious, have just been satisfactorily adjusted.

NO. 4 RACE ST.,

Bellefonte - Pa.

I have not changed my advertisement for several days so my remarks about coffee have become old. The coffee, however, is all right, and the price low—and sells so fast that I am constantly receiving new lots. The price now is 24, 25, 26 and 27 cents.

I need not meution all my new goods, but I will call your attention to a nice new lot of Hams and Shoulders which I am selling at a very small margin of profit.

I have also just received some very nice jellies—strawberry, currant, pine apple and other varieties—very nice goods and selling fast.

The mess pork is going fast as it is a nice article and should be in every house; every cook would find it a great convenience in many ways.

How do you like my portrait? every eye you see there is watching the market for the benefit of our customers.

Why is the Charge Made?

In the relations between labor and capital—which we have always contended should be friendly and cordial—oftentimes and regretable degree of bitterness exists. We have always believed that the controlling representatives both of capital and labor possessed so much of sense and judgement that neither would do anything outrageous. But a most important charge is made, in a telegram which we just read, against the Knights of Labor who managed the southwestern strike. A disaster which occurred on the Missouri Pacific road at that time is attributed to their agency.

Viewing the event from this standpoint we resent this charge against the Knights as insolent and unbearable. We can confidently assert that as an organization it was never guilty of anything of the sort. We dislike to say it, but we strongly suspect that the charge is part of a scheme to bring the organization into disrespect and discredit. Who planned it? Knowing the selfishness, grasping and greed of capital as we do, we believe it would stop at nothing to break up an organization of working men. Again we repeat the assertion that it is to the real interest of the two powers that they exist as helpful to each other; but we have no hope that they ever will. Do not believe these reports, but look upon them as misrepresentations.

Bellefonte Academy

A Chinese Complexion,

When observed in one of the Caucasian race, is indicative of bile in the blood. Who would be yellow when he or she can exhibit the hue of health on cheek and brow through the aid of Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, an antagonist at whose onset liver complaint takes refuge in flight. Fur upon the tongue, nausea, sick headache, pains under the right ribs and shoulder blade, an unpleasantly odorous breath, are remediable with this benign alterative, which does not, like a potent cathartic, drench the intestines or, like the mercurial preparations, contaminate the blood. Not only the liver, but the stomach and bowels are aroused, toned and regulated by this fine familiy medicine, which has won the confidence of the respectable classes, not by startling assertions on its behalf, but by the consistency of the claims made for it with its performance in every instance when tested.

A Lengthy Pastorate.

The late Rev. H. B. Ewell was the pastor of the Baptist Church at Pavilion, N. Y., for nearly half a century. He was a man of strict honor and integrity and the highest Christian character. His word was as good as a government bond, and he never expressed an opinion that he did not firmly believe. He wrote as follows:—"It affords me great pleasure to recommend to the public Gilmore's Aromatic Wine. I believe it to be the most desirable remedy that can be placed in any family. I am well acquainted with the manufacturers, and have confidence in their ability to do a good thing for suffering humanity. I have used their Wine in my family for a number of years with good effect, and firmly believe it will do what is claimed for it."

The Prohibitionists.

HARRISBURG, August 24.—The name of Hon. S. B. Chase, of Easton, was presented for temporary chairman by Chairman Barker, and Mr. Chase was unanimously chosen.

Thomas P. Hashberger, of Allegheny, named Clarence S. Reddig, H. L. Robinson temporary secretaries, and they were unanimously elected.

At 2.10 p. m. Chairman Chase again called the convention to order and prayer was offered by Rev. Hutchinson, of Mechanicsburg.

The committee on organization reported the following permanent officers, who were unanimously chosen:

Chairman—Charles S. Wolfe, Union.

Vice Presidents—A. A. Barker, Cambria; William Donner, Lehigh; Joseph Fulton, York; John Gorley, Washington; William Hargreaves, Philadelphia; Rev. Seth D. W. Smith, Franklin; Marion M. Eavenson, Philadelphia: Dr. Silas Martin, Lancaster; J. W. Orr, Butler; S. C. Freed, Montgomery.

Secretaries—Clarence J. Reddig, Franklin; H. L. Robinson, Fayette; Joseph F. Swope, Philadelphia.

A. A. Stevens read the platform which was adopted as read, though the female delegates from Delaware county endeavored to have the sentence relative to the Bible in the public schools stricken out, and an old soldier delegate protested against the wording of the clause referring to pensions for dependent soldiers.

The Afghan Ruler.

LONDON, August 24.—The Reuter dispatch from St. Petersburg describing the physical condition of the ameer of Afghanistan as critical, is not generally credited here, chiefly for the reason that the statement comes through Russian channels. It is, however, well known that the Afghan ruler has been ill for several months, and the story may turn to be true. Whether it be true or not, it would seem that the career of the ameer had rapidly been drawing toward a disastrous termination from other causes than his demise, and the death of Abdurrahman Kean at this time would only hasten by a few months the inevitable partition of his dominions beween England and Russia.

The latest accounts of matters in Afghanisan upon which any reliability can be placed indicate that the recent victories gained over the Ghilzais by Gholam Hyde, while they have enhanced the prestige of the ameer and dispersed a force that at one time threatened the existence of his rule, have by no means confirmed the stability of the ameer's government. The Ghilzais are scattered, it is true, and it is also true that they are being pursued northward by the victors, but the ameer's troops will find it impossible to bring them to bay, and it is only a question of time when their own retreat will begin. The ameer's arrogance since his late successes is reported to have become boundless, and he has felt himself strong enough to get rid of several of his officers whose ambition or popularity he has for a long timed feared.

Sharp Gets His Stay.

NEW, YORK, August 25.—A dispatch from White Hall this morning stated that Judge Potter has granted a stay in the case of Jacob Sharp. It is claimed this will give him a new trial and may admit him to bail. At 12.20 p. m. a hansom drove up to the entrance to Ludlow street jail, and a clerk from the office of Cockran & Clark entered the jail, bearing the news of the granting of a stay of proceedings. He handed the note personally to Mr. Sharp, who read it without showing any signs of emotion or making any comments upon it. Mr. Sharp then handed it to his wife, who read it and seemed to be delighted at the news.

Judge Potter, in granting a stay of proceedings in the Sharp case, said there was reasonable doubt that the judgment reached should stand; and he ordered a stay in the execution of such judgment until an appeal shall be decided by the general term. Up to 1 o'clock this afternoon no official communication relative to the stay in the matter had been received at the district attorney's office. Mr. Martine is out of town, and his assistant, Delancy Nicoll, is at Bar Harbor. The various counsel for the defence are out of town, and Judge Black, who tried Sharp, is at Block Island.

A Terrible Experience.

PITTSBURGH, August 24.—Louis Lowry, a stonemason employed at the new Duquesne tube works, opposite McKeesport, while at work yesterday was suddenly prostrated, and for three hours was pronounced dead by the attending physician. At the end of that time, however, he revived, and was soon able to go to McKeesport, where he was seen by a reporter. He said that during all of those three terrible hours he could hear and understand all that was said, and heard the physician pronounce him dead. He heard sympathizing bystanders ask concerning his name and circumstances, but was powerless to speak or move a muscle. He shivers when he thinks of the horrible experience. He was at one time employed on the new court house in this city, and while at work on the tower one day, was prostrated much in the same manner. At that time he narrowly escaped falling to the ground below. He is subject to such attacks.

The Convention Ended.

HARRISBURG, Aug. 25.—This morning's session of the prohibition state convention was slimly attended, many delegates having gone home, evidently considering the adoption of resolutions more important than the nomination of candidates. The convention opened with devotional exercises, and then the committee on credentials reported that 54 counties were represented by 525 delegates.

James Black, of Lancaster, said it was about time to begin the practical and important work of this convention, and he moved to proceed to the nomination of candidates. This was agreed to, and Mr. Black named for judge of the supreme court, Hon. S. B. Chase, of Easton, paying a glowing tribute to that gentleman, which was received with applause. Mr. Chase was unanimously chosen as the candidate for judge of the supreme court, the convention rising and cheering as it voted for him.

A. A. Stevens, of Blair, named for state treasurer Colonel D. C. Irish, of Lawrence county, who he said was an honest man, an old soldier, a prohibitionist because he loved and believed in prohibition principles. Colonel Irish was nominated by acclamation.

There were loud calls for Mr. Chase when the nominations were over, and he stepped forward and made the regulation temperance speech, at the same time returning thanks for the honor of the nomination.

Mr. Black moved that A. A. Stevens, of Blair, and Joshua L. Bailey, of Philadelphia, be chosen as alternates to represent Pennsylvania at the national executive committee meeting. There were some heavy noes to this, but it was adopted by a rising vote. Subsequently Delegate Greer, of Philadelphia, endeavored to explain why he voted against the motion, and it cropped out that he was against Mr. Bailey. There were signs of a breeze, but Wolfe shut it off. Delegate Babcock, of Philadelphia, thought Greer should be allowed to talk. This brought out Mr. Stevens, who said it was hardly fair to permit Greer to attack Bailey when the latter was absent.

After the adjournment the prohibition state committee held a meeting and elected Charles S. Wolfe, of Union county, chairman, with the understanding that he should have an assistant and appoint his own secretaries. It was also agreed that headquarters should be at Lewisburg. The compensation of the secretaries is to be fixed at a future meeting of the executive committee, which is composed of the following gentlemen: James Black, Lancaster; D. C. Babcock, Philadelphia; Marvin E. Clarke, Philadelphia; John B. Scott, Philadelphia; A. Ricketts, Wilkesbarre; A. A. Stevens, Blair; S. C. Freed, Montgomery; Leroy Gleeson, Bradford; Charles Miller, Venango; George Findley, Pittsburg; John A. M'Connell, Pittsburgh; Herbert A. Pennock, Delaware; John D. Gill, Greensburg; J. C. Rummel, Cumberland; Joseph A. Meers, Lackawanna.

Pottsville Gala Day.

POTTSVILLE, August 25.—This town was ablaze with patriotism to-day. Business was almost wholly suspended and the city was gay with bunting and evergreens and resonant with martial music. The occasion was the first reunion since the war of the veteran Forty-eighth Pennsylvania regiment, composed of men wholly from Schuylkill county, and famous for having constructed and exploded the historic Petersburg mine, and for having used up over two thousand men during its four years of service. About two hundred survivors of the regiment participated in the grand parade to-day which, however, was swelled to a mile in length by Grand Army posts, National Guard companies, the fire department, civic societies, judges of the courts, municipal officials, etc. Major O. C. Bosbyshell, of Philadelphia, formerly major of the Forty-eighth, was chief marshall and General J. K. Sigfried, of this city, formerly its colonel, commanded the veterans. A monster picnic was held in Agricultural Park after the parade. It was attended by 5,000 people, including Gen. Hartranft and other distinguished visitors. The proceeds of the picnic are to be applied to the erection of a monument to the Schuylkill county soldiers of the war.

The Sharp Case.

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—Gov. Hill to-day granted the application of District Attorney Martin and made an order convening an extra general term of the supreme court in and for the city of New York on the 7th day of September next for the purpose to ensure the prompt hearing and decision in the Sharp case.

The stay granted in the Sharp case does not appear to affect the old gentleman in the least. He slept no better last night than usual, and refrains from referring to the matter in any way. One of his counsels, Bourke Cochran, called upon him to-day. He concurs in the opinion that his client's mind is failing him. Mr. Cochran declined to discuss the question of procuring bail for Mr. Sharp.

Rev. T. F. Dornblaser, of Topeka, Kansas, is spending his vacation in Nittany Valley. Occasionally he delivers a lecture on an interesting topic.

Result of an Election.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—The election of delegates to the general assembly of the Knights of Labor, which will meet in Minneapolis on October 4, was concluded all over the United States and Canada last evening as the constitution of the order provides that representatives of the general assembly shall have been elected at least forty days prior to the meeting of its convention. Heretofore the basis of representation has been one delegate to 1,000 members in good standing. At Richmond last year nearly 1,000 delegates attended the sessions of the general assembly. This year the Minneapolis convention will be attended by one delegate for every 3,000 knights in good standing, which with the diminution of the number of members during the year, will reduce the number of delegates to the general assembly this year to less than 200.

The character of the delegates who will compose the coming national assembly is not known yet, but it is plainly apparent already to those in a position to know that there will not be a sufficient number of them to make any radical change in the existing order of things or to start any movement to overthrow the present administration. It is admitted that among the delegates elected there are some who will endeavor to bring Mr. Powderly and the members of the general executive board into disfavor with a view to having them deposed; "but," said a member of the general board, "it is now known that those delegates will be in such a small minority that their efforts will be smothered in the staunch support of those who will go to the convention to back up the administration. It is true," he said, "that New York, Philadelphia, Chicago, Omaha and Boston have elected some delegates who are unfriendly to the members of the general board, but these are but a handful compared to those who will come frome the south and west to oppose them. To be effective the anti-administration forces will have to muster 130 delegates out of the 200 who are expected to attend the convention, as it will require a two-thirds vote to set aside existing laws or overrule the decisions of the general master workman."

IN BRIEF, AND TO THE POINT

Dyspepsia is dreadful. Disordered liver is misery. Indigestion is a foe to good nature.

The human digestive apparatus is one of the most complicated and wonderful things in existence. It is easily put out of order.

Greasy food, tough food, sloppy food, bad cookery, mental worry, late hours, irregular habits, and many other things which ought not to be, have made the American people a nation of dyspeptics.

But Green's August flower has done a wonderful work in reforming this sad business and making the American people so healthy that they can enjoy their meals and be happy.

Remember:—No happiness without health. But Green's August Flower brings health and happiness to the dyspeptic. Ask your druggist for a bottle. Seventy-five cents.

Dull Days in Washington.

WASHINGTON, August 26.—The two succeeding months bid fair to be the dullest for many years in the Capital City. While the president will be in the District of Columbia during the greater part of September, the most of his time will be spent at Oak View, as during that month the executive mansion is very unpleasant owing to the miasma which arises from the Potomac flats. The latter part of September the president and members of the cabinet will leave Washington for about three weeks' travel in the west and south. In the interim heads of the several departments will recuperate at the seashore and mountain resorts.

At the capitol there are no signs of preparation for an extra session of congress, although, should the occasion demand it, everything could be put in readiness for the reception of congress within thirty days. Inside the building the painters, decorators and scrubbers are brightening up the dark corners and getting ready to give the new congress a cheerful welcome. In the house of representatives a new carpet of pretty design, in old gold and green, will be put down, the desks covered with blue cloth, and the paint work touched up.

General Vilas is not expected to return to Washington, unless emergency demands it, until after the presidential tour through the west, the details of which were arranged in part by the postmaster general. General Vilas is busily engaged on department work at his home in Wisconsin, and upon his return to Washington expects to have his annual report well under way for submission to congress.

General Clarke, the clerk of the house of representatives, has received and had printed the testimony in eight contested election cases that are to be considered by the next congress. They are as follows: Lowry vs. White, Indiana; Smalls vs. Elliott, South Carolina; Galnor vs. Frank, Missouri; Worthington vs. Post, Illinois; McDuffy vs. Davidson, Alabama; Thoebe vs. Carlisle, Kentucky; Sullivan vs. Felton, and Lynch vs. Vandemir, California.

A Reliable Port Wine.

Mr. A. Speer, of New Jersey, whose Port Grape Wine has such a wide reputation, and which physicians prescribe so generally, was the first in this country to import Port Wine Grape vines from the banks of the River Doura, in Portugal, where the finest old time ports were made and to plant vineyards of them in New Jersey. His Port, Burgundy and Claret which are now the best wine to be had, have become a great favorite among the most fashionable New York, Philadelphia and Washington society.

AMENDMENT TO THE CONSTITUTION Proposed to the citizens of this Commonwealth for their approval or rejection by the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania. Published by order of the Secretary of the Commonwealth, in pursuance of Article XVIII of the Constitution.

Joint resolution proposing an amendment to the constitution of the commonwealth:

SECTION 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following is proposed as an amendment of the constitution of the commonwealth of Pennsylvania in accordance with the provisions of the eighteenth article thereof:

AMENDMENT.

Strike out from section one of article eight, the four qualifications for voters which reads as follows:

"If twenty-two years of age or upwards, he shall have paid, within two years, a state or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least two months, and paid at least one month before the election," so that the section which reads as follows:

"Every male citizen, twenty-one years of age, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at all elections:

First. He shall have been a citizen of the United States at least one month.

Second. He shall have resided in the state one year (or if, having previously been a qualified elector or native born citizen of the state, he shall have removed therefrom and returned, then six months) immediately preceding the election.

Third. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least two months immediately preceding the election.

Fourth. If twenty two years of age or upwards, he shall have paid, within two years, a state or county tax, which shall have been assessed at least two months, and paid at least one month before the election," shall be amended, so as to read as follows:

Every male citizen twenty-one years of age, possessing the following qualifications, shall be entitled to vote at the polling place of the election district of which he shall at the time be a resident and not elsewhere:

First. He shall have been a citizen of the United States at least thirty days.

Second. He shall have resided in the state one year (or if, having previously been a qualified elector or native born citizen of the state, he shall have removed therefrom and returned, then six months) immediately preceding the election.

Third. He shall have resided in the election district where he shall offer to vote at least thirty days immediately preceding the election. The legislature, at the session thereof, next after the adoption of this section, shall, and from time to time thereafter may, enact laws to properly enforce this provision.

Fourth. Every male citizen of the age of twenty-one years, who shall have been a citizen for thirty days and an inhabitant of this state one year next preceding an election, except at municipal elections, and for the last thirty days a resident of the election district in which he may offer his vote, shall be entitled to vote at such election in the election district of which he shall at the time be a resident and not elsewhere for all officers that now are or hereafter may be elected by the people: Provided, That in time of war no elector in the actual military service of the State or of the United States, in the army or navy thereof, shall be deprived of his vote by reason of his absence from such election district, and the legislature shall have power to provide the manner in which and the time and place at which such absent electors may vote, and for the return and canvas of their votes in the election district in which they respectively reside.

Fifth. For the purpose of voting, no person shall be deemed to have gained or lost a residence by reason of his presence or absence while employed in the service of the United States or the State, nor while engaged in the navigation of the waters of the State or of the high seas, nor while a student of any college or seminary of learning, nor while kept at any almshouse or public institution, except the inmates of any home for disabled and indigent soldiers, who, for the purpose of voting, shall be deemed to reside in the election district where said home is located. Laws shall be made for ascertaining, by proper proofs, the citizens who shall be entitled to the right of suffrage hereby established.

Joint resolution proposing an amendment to the Constitution of this Commonwealth:

SECTION 1. Be it resolved by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania in General Assembly met, That the following amendment is proposed to the Constitution of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in accordance with the Eighteenth Article thereof:

AMENDMENT

There shall be an additional article to said Constitution to be designated as article XIX, as follows:

ARTICLE XIX

The manufacture, sale, or keeping for sale of intoxicating liquor, to be used as a beverage, is hereby prohibited, and any violation of this prohibition shall be a misdemeanor, punishable as shall be provided by law.

The manufacture, sale, or keeping for sale of intoxicating liquor for other purposes than as a beverage may be allowed in such manner only as may be prescribed by law. The General Assembly shall, at the first session succeeding the adoption of this article of the Constitution, enact laws with adequate penalties for its enforcement.

TESTIMONIALS AND EULOGIES.

THE CENTRE, HUNTINGDON, CLINTON AND CLEARFIELD BAR ASSOCIATIONS PAY TRIBUTE TO THE MEMORY OF THE LATE EX-JUDGE ADAM HOY.

On Thursday at 11 o'clock a meeting of the Centre County Bar Association was held in the Court House. It was quite largely attended. The object was to pay proper tribute to the memory of the late ex-Judge Adam Hoy.

There were present seven members of the Huntingdon County Bar Association, at least two members of the Clinton county Bar Association, and a letter was received by Judge A. O. Furst from Judge Krebs, of Clearfield, expressing regret at not being able to be present. Judge Krebs was a pupil of Judge Hoy. His letter will be recorded as part of the proceedings of this meeting.

The countenances of all present wore an air of unusual seriousness and sadness. Judge Orvis called the meeting to order, and, in quite low tones, said it was unnecessary to state the object of the gathering. He then briefly alluded to his intimate and cordial relations with the deceased and called for the reading of the minute prepared for the occasion, which was a feeling and forcible review of Judge Hoy's life and character, read by the chairman of the committee, Hon. John B. Linn. We shall publish it in a future issue.

The reading of this paper was followed by the reading of a paper by Samuel T. Brown, Esq., of the Huntingdon bar. It was followed by a few remarks expressive of his individual sentiments, in which he said that he considered the deceased a "sound, safe, prudent and reliable lawyer." His remarks regarding the tenor of our conduct toward legal brethren, before their death, were full of wisdom and sound sense.

President Judge A. O. Furst was the next speaker. His speech was touchingly eloquent throughout. One year ago, at the August session, also on Monday morning, the death of Durbin Gray was announced to court by Judge Hoy. Little did the brethren gathered around him imagine that so soon Judge Orvis would be called upon to announce the death of Judge Hoy. Then he referred to the deaths which had occurred during recent years among the members of the bar, especially during the past year. His recollections of Judge Hoy were delightful. He believed that his preceptor, Judge Hale, had been his guiding star. The church and his own family will feel the loss. There was no blemish to his memory. In politics he was loyal to his country in the hour of attempted disunion.

Hon. James P. Coburn said he would be false to the emotions which animated his heart if he would fail to give expression to his sentiments on this occasion. The deceased was ever genial, frank and true; not ambitious to shine, but possessing the pure gold of legal lore. His life was spotless; his purposes always pure.

D. F. Fortney, Esq., next to his own preceptor, esteemed Judge Hoy above all the members of the bar. Young lawyers could approach him and had access to his large law library. No temptations could swerve him from what he considered to be his duty. He could ask with Samuel of old: "Of whom have I received a bribe to blind mine eyes?" As the head of an unbroken household, the deceased had stated to him that he was one of the happiest men in Bellefonte. It was Irving who said: "The one sorrow from which we refuse to be divorced is our sorrow for the dead."

Ex-Senator Peale, of Clinton county, stated that the Judge was known to every member of the bar of his county. He had always received Judge Hoy's greetings with special feelings of satisfaction. In reference to his confidence in Judge Hoy, he stated that within the past three months he had been written to by a gentleman of large business interests to name a lawyer in Central Pennsylvania in whom he could entrust important affairs, relying on his fidelity and ability. He had named several, and at the head of the list was the name of Adam Hoy. Members of the bar, what do we live for? The goal and summit of the ambition of a lawyer should be that he may have the respect not only of the world but of his own soul.

John G. Love, Esq., spoke of his intimate relations with the deceased and also with his family. Judge Hoy read not only law, but also miscellaneous literature. He took no time for recreation. He was more especially distinguished as an orphan's court lawyer and in that branch of legal lore was universally looked up to and respected.

The concluding arrangements were made for the funeral and the meeting adjourned.

—Mr. James Fanning feels particularly happy just now because he arrived home a few days ago as he believes radically cured. When he started to Philadelphia three or four weeks ago he was afflicted with a disease which threatened to speedily end his life. It was cancer, which in so many instances has proven incurable. He went at once to the Hospital of the University of Pennsylvania, where he was operated upon by Dr. Agnew and Dr. D. S. Haine. "How soon will I be able to go home?" he inquired of the doctors. "In two weeks or a little longer," the doctors replied. Within the two weeks Mr. Fanning was able to return home. He was greatly delighted with his treatment at the hospital, and is more than thankful that the disease is removed. He was in our office on Wednesday and looks exceedingly well.

Court Proceedings for Wednesday and this Morning.

In the case of Commonwealth against William Hannigh, the jury returned a verdict of guilty. The court sentenced the defendant to pay costs of prosecution and one hundred dollars for lying in expenses, and for the time the child lived and for funeral expenses.

Commonwealth vs. John A. Lehr, the verdict was not guilty and costs equally divided between prosecutor and defendant.

Same vs. John F. Cooney, for assault and battery, the jury found him guilty, and was sentenced to pay $5 fine and costs of prosecution.

C. H. Yeakly, who plead guilty to the charge of forgery, was sentenced one dollar fine, costs of prosecution and one year in the penitentiary.

Robert Taylor plead guilty to violation of liquor laws. He was sentenced to pay costs and a fine of two hundred dollars.

Commonwealth vs. Perry C. Steele, Jr., for assault and battery on Redy Shearer, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty and directed the prosecutor, Thomas Shearer, to pay one half of the costs and the defendant the other half.

Same vs. Jno. Beezer. Case was continued to next term.

Same vs. George Grimes, Calvin Miller, Frank Miller, and Fortney Hilton, plead guilty to the charge of gambling, and were each sentenced to pay $10 fine and one-fourth of the cost.

Same vs. William O'Brian, for assault with intent to kill, on Hugh Riddle. The defendant plead guilty to the second count of the indictment of aggravated assault and battery, the District Attorney entering a noll pros on first count. He was sentenced to pay $1 fine and costs of prosecution and undergo, by separate and solitary confinement at hard labor, in the western penitentiary, an imprisonment for a term of one year.

Same vs. Samuel Long. Violation of the liquor law. Defendant plead guilty and was sentenced to pay costs of prosecution and a fine of three hundred dollars.

Who will Attend School?

An enrollment of all the pupils who attended the borough schools last year and all who it is known will go to them the coming year has been made. It is desirable, however, to make the list yet more complete, and with this object the parents or guardians of children who are expected to attend and who did not attend last year are requested to meet at the office of Wm. B. Rankin, the secretary of the board, on Monday and Tuesday evenings, August 29 and 30, from 7 till 9 o'clock. The school age is 6 years and all children of that age or over, residing within the borough, are privileged to attend. If those who have control of such children will meet the secretary, as above stated, the work of enrollment and arrangement of the pupils can be hastened, and active school operations can begin as soon as the schools are opened.

—Mr. James Fleck is quite an aged man who frequently comes to town with produce to sell. Forty years ago an accident happened to him which deprived him of the sight of one eye. Until recently, however, the sightless eye did not bother him, except the inconvenience it must necessarily have caused. A few weeks ago it became very sore and Mr. Fleck suffered great pain. He resolved to have it treated and Dr. H. K. Hoy examined it. His verdict was that to save the other eye the blind eye must be removed, which was accordingly done, and Mr. Fleck, although aged and feeble, does not experience any pain or discomfort with his eye.

Letter List.

Following is a complete list of the letters remaining uncalled for in the post-office at Bellefonte, Centre county, Penn'a, August 22, 1887:

Mrs. Emma Armstrong, Mr. J. Aumer, H. Bennett, Miss Alice Bright, John Bradford, J. B. Duff, D. A. Diller, Mrs. Hannah Flack, O. C. Faust, Mrs. Annie C. Hoffman, McGee Bros., Mrs. Fred Neglia, Passenger, William Runkle-2, J. H. Stover, administrator, Elijah Walker.

Persons inquiring for letters named in the above list will please say advertised.

JAS. H. DOBBINS, P. M.

—Mr. Al. H. Stover and Miss Ida Rishel were married on Thursday a. m. by Rev. Chas. T. Steck. Al is a son of Mr. Frank B. Stover, proprietor of Stover's meat market, and is an agreeable and promising young gentleman. His bride is the only daughter of Mr. John Rishel, and is bright and accomplished. They departed on the morning train for a wedding tour to last ten days or two weeks. The bride and groom have congratulations and wishes that their married life may be long and happy.

—In the case of the Commonwealth vs. John A. Lehr, of Philipsburg, tried in court, the jury returned a verdict of not guilty, but the costs to be divided. The verdict did not prove satisfactory to the Court or the public, and Judge Furst administered a severe reproof to the jurors.

Grand Jury Report.

To the Honorable Court of Quarter Sessions in and for the County of Centre:

The Grand Inquest of the Court of Quarter Sessions in and for the county of Centre, State of Pennsylvania, August term, 1887. After having disposed of all the indictments presented under the direction of the Court, we have examined the public buildings and find the court room and the several offices and vaults in the basement of the court house to be in good condition. We find the bridge leading from the rear of the Court House needing some repairs on account of some of the flooring being rotten, and we would respectfully recommend the repairing of the same.

We find the water closets at the rear of the Court House to be in a miserable condition, so much so as to render it a nuisance, and would recommend the entire removal of it and its contents, and a suitable substitute erected with sufficient drain and water pipes to render it a suitable place for the purposes for which it is intended.

In the case of the county jail we find the part occupied by the Sheriff and his family, together with the Sheriff's office, in good condition, except in the hall under the bath room, where the water has run through from the bath room above and caused the plastering to become loose. We also find a pile of filth and rubbish near the northeast corner of the jail yard, which we think should at once be removed. In the part of the jail occupied by the prisoners we find some of the cells damp and wet, appearing to have been caused by defective water pipes, and we find a damp and unwholesome smell pervading the whole of that part of the building, caused by the want of proper ventilation and lack of attention. The water closets in the different cells are we think, another cause of the condition of the building, and would recommend the removal of said water closets. And we also recommend that all the vermin and filth be removed from the building. We further think that a proper water closet should be erected for the use of the jail with proper drainage pipes leading from it to the general drainage pipes of the town. We also recommend some suitable bath room for the use of the prisoners. JAS. C. BOAL, Foreman.

Unionville Items.

The people and affairs in this place are moving along in their usual quiet way, nothing extremely startling having transpired for some time.

We presume that young man from the REPUBLICAN office (whose name is the same as that of a place where we sometimes catch trout) can tell something from recent experience of the pleasures of a visit to this place.

A man from West Virginia came here a few days ago with a patent "root and stump extractor" and has exhibited its powers for clearing land in Samuel Brugger's woods. It seems to be a grand invention for the purpose. He is making an effort to sell the county right.

J. H. Shipley will soon have his new house ready for the plasterer and painter.

Wm. McEwen (who broke ground for a new house a few months ago) now has mechanics at work and will push it to completion.

J. W. Hoover has purchased the Mattern store at the Scotia Mines and placed A. B. Shipley (a former clerk for Mr. Mattern) there to manipulate the business for a few months, after which Mr. Hoover will move his store over from this place and carry a full stock.

Our borough is chuck full of new ordinances from which we hope to derive some benefit. Among the rest of needed reforms shooting within the borough limits is prohibited. This we hope the boys and young men will bear in mind when they pass along the west side of Bald Eagle creek with guns.

Mr. Laning is bringing peaches to town from his Dick run farm and selling them quite reasonable. J.

Centre County Patrons' Exhibition.

The address of welcome will be delivered by James A. Keller, Worthy Master of Centre County Grange; Colonel James F. Weaver will speak in behalf of the Patrons and Adjutant General Hastings in behalf of the State. Addresses will also be delivered by Hon. Girard C. Brown, of York; Colonel V. E. Piollet, Bradford county; Colonel W. W. Downey, Maryland; R. H. Thomas, Cumberland county, and others.

The committee of arrangements will be on the grounds Monday, September 5, and Monday and Tuesday, September 12 and 13, to meet any who desire to exhibit machinery, etc., and assist in arranging the same.

Considerable labor and money have been spent to put the grounds in better condition for picnic purposes—old logs, underbrush and dead trees have been removed. The road on both sides of the mountain is in splendid condition. The turnpike from the old road to Centre Hall will be brilliantly illuminated, thus avoiding much danger. Policemen will be appointed by the court who will preserve perfect order.

More than forty tents have already been engaged, and that number will be largely augmented before the opening of the Exhibition. The Pennsylvania State Grange will have headquarters in one tent, as well as the County Pomona Grange.

The views of the battlefield of Gettysburg promise to be an interesting feature of the programme. Mr. Bartram will give an exhibition on Wednesday evening and on Thursday evening James T. Long will deliver a lecture on the battlefield, accompanied by views entirely different from those exhibited the night previous.

For information address the Chairman, Leonard Rhone, Centre Hall, Pa.

A Closely Contested Game.

The game of base ball on Friday afternoon between Lock Haven and Bellefonte nines was the best and most interesting which has been played in Bellefonte for several years. Two or three hundred people were present and this number would have been much larger had Lock Haven responded to the repeated telegrams sent to them to give answer as to whether they would come or not, which would have afforded time to advertise the event. The game must conclusively demonstrate that Bellefonte has many very superior players. Without any previous practice our boys went into the field and played veteran and experienced base ballists and during most of the game victory seemed within their grasp. Lock Haven won only by an extremely narrow margin and because of costly errors on the part of the home team. With equal practice Bellefonte could present a handsome goose egg to the visitors every time. The Lock Haven nine consists of excellent players and Shaffer, their pitcher, is a daisy, greatly puzzling our boys and the way he made them fan the wind was provoking. On the other hand, Mr. Lohr, who pitched for Bellefonte was equally fine and made many of the visitors think they were trying to strike a shadow. Our boys all did so well that we shall not select any one for commendation, except to voice the unanimously expressed opinion that Mr. Linn, who played at second base, was the best general player on the field in either side. His service was very effective. We believe he did not make an error. Magnificent plays were made by members of both nines.

We suggest that if the interest in base ball is to be continued throughout the season that Mr. Linn and Mr. Lohr, the pitcher, be persuaded in some way to remain. With a few days practice such a team would be the best in Central Pennsylvania and could go to Lock Haven, Williamsport or anywhere else and win every game.

We believe the visitors were satisfied with the game. They have reason to be as the game was won strictly on its merits. Generally they behaved in a gentlemanly manner and won the esteem of those who met them. We understand they are starting on a short tour. We hope they will meet with even greater success elsewhere than here. The score of the game was:

Lock Haven	13
Bellefonte	12

—Services of a very solemn and affecting character were held on Thursday afternoon over the remains of the late ex-Judge Adam Hoy. The house would not contain more than one-third of the people who were present to show their regard and esteem. High street was thronged with people who waited outside the residence while services were in progress within. The Centre County Bar Association was present, together with representatives of Huntingdon and Clinton county bars, each member wearing the badge of mourning. Six ministers were present, viz., Rev. W. H. H. Snyder, of the Reformed church; Rev. D. S. Monroe, D. D., Rev. Wm. Laurie, D. D., Rev. Robert Hamill, D. D., Rev. Chas. T. Steck and Rev. R. C. Crittenden. Rev. Mr. Snyder read the appropriate passages which usually form part of such services and Dr. Monroe offered prayer. Rev. Wm. Laurie, pastor of the Presbyterian church, delivered the sermon. Dr. Hamill ended the service with appropriate words of exhortation. The pall bearers were Judge C. A. Mayer, of Lock Haven, ex-Judge John H. Orvis, Judge A. O. Furst, Samuel T. Brown, Esq., of Huntingdon, James Rankin and John G. Love, Esqs.

—It was truly a frightful accident that occurred at Strunk & McMullen's saw mill, north of Millheim, on Tuesday afternoon, the 23d. The two children of Jacob Ertel, who lives near the mill, had often been warned to be careful when playing near the shafting, but did not heed the warning sufficiently. Alvin Ertel, aged 9 years, threw a rope over the main shaft and before he could disengage himself from the rope he was drawn against a wheel which was revolving at the rate of 600 times a minute. His left arm was torn off and his lower limbs badly injured. He is still surviving, and it is said that he endured all the surgical operations with much fortitude, not taking anything to deaden the pain, and scarcely flinching.

—We listened for a few minutes Friday afternoon to an argument being made to the jury by John Blanchard, Esq., of Philadelphia, son of Evan Blanchard, Esq., of this place. He speaks with directness and force and a good choice of language. His arguments seem to be arranged logically and in a manner to carry conviction. We do not know whether this was his first speech before a Centre county jury or not (probably not), but he certainly made a good impression. It is to be hoped that Mr. Blanchard will not only come to Bellefonte occasionally to practice his profession, but that he will settle here where his father is a prominent member of the bar, where his uncle was one of the most prominent practicioners and where, we believe, his grandfather was among the gentlemen whose talents made the Centre county bar pre-eminent in the State.

A Novel Bet.

While I am not a betting man, said F. J. Cheney, of the firm of F. J. Cheney & Co., I considered it my religious duty to make that fellow a bet. You see he was about dead, and I guess he would have died before Spring, if I had not got him on the bet. You know some men had rather lose their life than lose a hundred. Well he was one of that kind, and we both came near being out, but I saved my hundred and it only cost him ten dollars. How's that? He sent for me one day and said the doctors had all given him up to die, with the catarrh. I told him that I would bet him $100 that Hall's Catarrh Cure would cure him or I would give him $100 if it failed. He took the latter proposition. This was three months ago; you see how he looks now, don't you, as well as any one, and a dandy.—American, Toledo, O.

—The Centre Democrat has conferred an inestimable favor on the public. All these long ages since the English language was first used it has not been known exactly how many were meant by the term several. From the Democrat we infer that several means two. For instance, it says that the Presbyterians listened to "several" ministers last Sunday, and then adds that two preached to them. While it is sad to know that several must be limited to mean only two, there is now no hope of enlarging its significance.

—An important and excellent improvement has just been made along the creek on Willow Bank street. A substantial board walk has been built there, protected on the creek side by a strong and durable frame railing. This change has been needed for several weeks past and we are glad that it has been made, particularly in view of the fact that Water St in that direction is so frequently traveled, not only by people who live in that section but also by all visitors in town who desire to look at the beautiful spring.

Great Increase in Business.

MR. EDITOR: I am puzzled to understand the reason for the extensive growth of my harness business of late. The fact is, that business is so much better that I had to hire three additional harness makers, and my sales are much larger than they used to be. I have orders for work sufficient to keep the full force busy for six weeks. Perhaps it is because Cleveland is President, but more likely because I have recently been given so much cheap advertising.

—On Thursday at 7 o'clock in Lemont, Mr. Al Rishel, son of John Rishel, Esq., was wedded to Miss Emma Shreck. The bride and groom departed with Mr. and Mrs. Al Stover—whose wedding this morning is referred to elsewhere—to the sea shore for a honeymoon journey. This made sort of a double wedding, both couples being intimate friends, and two of the participants being members of Mr. Rishel's family.

—A remarkable specimen of the handsome golden sunflower is at present blossoming in the yard of the residence on Howard street occupied by Mrs. Welsh. From a single giant stalk scores of branches, or stems, hold up beautiful blossoms. The effect is striking.

Bellefonte Republican,

EDWARD T. TUTEN, - - Editor

Terms, $2.00 per annum in Advance

Local Department.

—Overcoats were quite numerous on Tuesday.

—The United Brethren church building is being re-roofed and otherwise improved.

—Peaches are new coming to market and were as low as $1.25 per basket on Tuesday.

—Music to be rendered on the occasion of the dedication of the new school building is now in course of preparation.

—The Y. M. C. A. meeting on Sunday afternoon was largely attended and interesting. Mr. S. A. Stover conducted it.

—To-day (Thursday) and after you can shoot squirrels if you have a gun and can shoot straight—and can find the squirrels.

—The failure is announced of Robert Hare Powell's Sons & Co., who have been transacting business in Saxton, Huntingdon county.

—Residents of this county who have been granted pensions during the past week are David Bunnell, of Spring Mills, and Winfield S. Port, Port Mitalda.

—A very enjoyable party was given at the home of Rev. James P. Hughes, Principal of the Bellefonte Academy, on Saturday evening, in honor of Miss Laning, a guest.

—The Republican party is the one to rigorously observe the unwritten, but none the less binding, rule in opposition to a third term in office. Vote for Henderson and Decker.

—The R. H. B., a social club of young gentlemen, expect to give an entertainment on the evening of the 5th or 6th of September at the home of Mr. George Jackson, Linn street.

—Mr. Thomas Gray, of Half Moon Valley, died on Saturday morning last of billious colic. He was about 35 years of age and leaves a family. The funeral services occurred on Sunday afternoon.

Miss Mertie Garretson, of Huntingdon, is a guest at the home of Mr. John C. Miller. Miss G. has favored Bellefonte with her presence on former occasions and is a popular favorite with all who have met her.

—Mr. Alexander Noll, formerly of Howard, this county, died on Friday at the residence of his sister, Mrs. Harper, in Huntingdon county. The funeral occurred on Sunday; interment in the Warriorsmark cemetery.

—There are over one hundred and fifty telephones connected with the Bellefonte telephone exchange, while Lock Haven has less than fifty. What causes our neighbor to be so slow in using this great invention?

—All the surviving members of the 84th regiment of the Pennsylvania Veteran Volunteers are requested to attend the reunion in Huntingdon on September 21, at the time of the Huntingdon county centennial celebration.

—Among the garden productions cultivated by Mr. Chas. F. Cook is a pumpkin which is marvelous in its proportions. It has not been measured with a tape measure, but it will make several yards of excellent pumpkin pie.

—The Board of Directors of the Young Men's Christian Association met on Monday evening at 6.30 o'clock, an excellent lunch being served, for which we believe the Board is indebted to the kindness of President F. Potts Green, J. W. Gephart, Esq., and General Secretary Schaeffer. After the supper was ended an hour and a half was devoted to business.

—A quiet but beautiful wedding occurred in St. John's Protestant Episcopal church at 1.30 o'clock Wednesday, the contracting parties being Mr. S. B. Miller and Miss Amanda Armor. They were assisted by Mr. W. W. Bayard and Miss Armor. Rev. J. O. Davis, the rector, officiated. They departed on the 2 o'clock train over the Lemont railroad. They have our most earnest congratulations.

—Another excitement on the subject of natural gas was occasioned at Milesburg on Monday by the sure indication that there will be a large flow of gas from one of the wells on which operations are now in progress. One of the men at work at the mouth of the well was completely overcome by the flow of gas and several minutes were required to resuscitate him. A company will at once be organized and the operation of boring for gas will be prosecuted with renewed vigor.

—A wedding will occur in the Presbyterian church at 8 o'clock this (Thursday) morning, the contracting parties being Miss E. Kate Devling and Mr. R. Hamill Bosl. No invitations have been issued and all the friends of the contracting parties are invited to be present. The bride is one of Bellefonte's most charming and popular young ladies. The groom is a civil engineer employed by the Collins Brothers. After the ceremony there will be a wedding breakfast and the happy party will depart at nine o'clock for Watkin's Glen and other places of interest.

GLORIOUS REPUBLICANISM!

The Grand Old Party Meets in County Convention.

Rhoads, Goss, Cooke, Henderson, Decker, Gramley, Harter, Gray and Gregg Named as Standard Bearers.

A SAFE AND CONSERVATIVE PLATFORM OF PRINCIPLES.

ALL OF WHICH WILL COMBINE TO BRING VICTORY.

The Republican county ticket nominated on Tuesday afternoon should be memorized by every citizen in the county, and as "Excelsior" was the watchword of Longfellow's hero to inspire him to further progress, so the names of the Republican standard bearers should be the synonym of triumph next November. They are:

Associate Judge—Daniel Rhoads.
Treasurer—Cyrus Goss.
Sheriff—Robert Cooke, Jr.
Commissioners—John C. Henderson and John Decker.
Register—T. M. Gramley.
Recorder—John M. Harter.
Auditors—S. T. Gray and Col. Andrew Gregg.

At an early hour the Court House was crowded. It was exactly 2.10 o'clock p. m., by the solemn clock that hangs on the wall, when County Chairman Wilbur F. Reeder called the convention to order. Will E. Gray, Esq., read the call for the convention and also the list of delegates. There was only one report of contested seats—the third ward of Philipsburg.

On motion of Mr. Coburn, Capt. C. T. Fryberger, of Philipsburg, was selected as chairman. Mr. Crissman, of Philipsburg, and Mr. Oscar Miles, of Milesburg, were chosen to be tally clerks, and Will E. Gray elected secretary.

The following named gentleman were appointed to be a committee on contested seats: Messrs. W. J. Thompson, William Woodring, O. W. Vanvalin, G. F. Stevenson and H. C. Campbell. The committee on resolutions was composed of Messrs. James P. Coburn, Hugh Adams, W. L. Malin, D. Rhinesmith and Dr. Theo. Christ. Mr. Stott, a North ward delegate, being absent, W. I. Fleming was chosen by the committee as a substitute. J. A. Aikens, on motion, named the order in which nominations are to be made, which was adopted. Until the committee on contested seats should report nothing could be done. That report named H. Simler and D. W. Thompson as the duly elected delegates from that ward.

John G. Love, Esq., named Hon. Daniel Rhoads for associate judge, highly extolling that gentleman's excellent character and ability. His nomination was made by acclamation.

Three names were put in nomination for treasurer, viz., Cyrus Goss, of Ferguson township; John Harris, of Bellefonte, and Reuben Pletcher, of Howard. There was only one ballot:

Goss	58
Harris	33
Pletcher	12

Mr. Cyrus Goss was declared the nominee, and it was made unanimous.

When Mr. Coburn placed the name of Samuel H. Diehl in nomination for sheriff he spoke of him as a resident of a remote township, a mechanic by trade, a Republican by profession, a citizen who would grace the position. John G. Dubbs, of Zion, was named by Clement Dale, Esq., and Robert Cooke, Jr., by a delegate. Mr. Cooke was nominated on the first ballot, which was as follows:

Diehl	28
Dubbs	22
Cooke	53

His nomination was also made unanimous.

John C. Henderson, William Dawson, David Keller, Captain Austin Curtin and John Decker were successively named for the nomination for Commissioner. Two were voted for and the two receiving the highest number of votes were elected. The following ballot tells the story:

Henderson	90
Dawson	4
Keller	9
Curtin	45
Decker	58

Which means that you must vote for Henderson and Decker for commissioners.

Five nominations for register were made in the order that their names are here given: J. Irvin Morris, of Milesburg; T. M. Gramley, of Miles township; D. W. Fisher, of Unionville; Dr. W. B. Wengert, of Philipsburg; William McClure, of Bellefonte. Dr. Wengert withdrew. The first ballot was

Morris	28
Gramley	64
Fisher	14
McClure	2

This makes T. M. Gramley the nominee.

Recorder was the next office for which nominations were to be made, there being only one name mentioned—John M. Harter, of Millheim—who was nominated by acclamation.

The ticket was finished with the nomination for auditors. The names mentioned were S. T. Gray, of Patton township; Col. Andrew Gregg, of Potter township, and Owen Underwood, of Union township. The first and only ballot gave—

Gray	70
Gregg	86
Underwood	41

The two highest on the list, viz., S. T. Gray and Andrew Gregg, are the nominees.

The convention chose John G. Love, Esq., for chairman of the county committee, Wilbur F. Reeder, Esq., withdrawing his name and Mr. Love's nomination being made by acclamation.

The declaration of principles was read by James Coburn, Esq., chairman of the committee appointed to draft them, and is as follows:

The Republican party of Centre county, in convention assembled, declare:

First—That we accept unqualifidly the declaration of the Republicans of Pennsylvania in favor of submitting to a vote of the people the prohibitory constitutional amendment. That the action of the last legislature, in promptly submitting the question to the people, is in full accord with the history and character of the party, and in firm adherence to the pledges made to the people.

Second, That we renew our allegiance to the principle of Protection to American manufactures, as declared by the Republican party in its last State Convention. It is a policy in which Pennsylvania has ever led, and in its fruits has been demonstrated the wisdom and sagacity of the party which inaugurated, and, despite the continued and vindictive warfare of the Democratic party against it, has and will continue to maintain it. We believe in the protection of American workmen from unjust and unfair competition, whether it be imported contract labor, or by an adjustment of tariff duties that afford no protection to them.

Third, We heartily and unqualifiedly endorse the Republican State administration. By its unswerving fidelity to those principles which alone give good government and assure the happiness and contentment of a people, it satisfies the wishes and fulfills the hopes of those who placed it in power, and begets a confidence that the wise measures already established and practiced will continue its rule and guide. In Governor Beaver we have an upright and conscientious Executive, one who ever keeps in mind the welfare and prosperity of those whose interests have been intrusted to to his keeping.

Fourth, We charge the Democratic party of the State and Nation with failure to fulfill its promises. The present national administration is distinguished alone for its general incompetency and the absence of all statesmanship in the conduct of the affairs of government. It has sought to make treason respectable, while patriotism is relegated to the shades of "innocuous desuetude," a forgotten and a useless virtue. It forgets the appeal of the helpless crippled soldier, in sickly attempts to conciliate a section of the country which by fraud, intimidation and ballot box stuffing has elevated it to power.

Fifth, That we condemn the Democratic party of Centre county for its dishonest and incompetent administration of the affairs of the county. It has been its boast that for fifty years Democracy has ruled Centre county, and we reply that the last ten or fifteen years of this time have been fraught with much crookedness and concealment, especially in the unjust and unlawful taxation of costs in the Prothonotary's, Register's and Sheriff's offices, the means by which our people, without respect to political affiliation, have been systematically extorted upon. We call upon our people to candidly consider and determine whether or not the supremacy of any political party is worth such a sacrifice, and whether or not a change in the control of county affairs would not greatly benefit all concerned.

Sixth, Resolved, That the Democratic party of Centre county has ignored and trampled under its feet the precedent of the party against a third term, which had become sacred by the observance of a century, in nominating a candidate for the third term to one of the most important offices in the county.

Resolved, That the candidates this day placed in nomination are worthy of the support of all Republicans, and of all those who desire honesty and integrity in public officials; and that we hereby pledge them our united and cordial support.

One hundred and three delegates were present in a total of one hundred and five—the largest Republican convention ever held in Centre county.

Henry George's Doctrines in Centre County.

We are informed that a well known and energetic gentleman, who resides in the vicinity of the Juniata Mines, and whose intense Greenback proclivities have been famous for many years, ever since that great doctrine swept like a cyclone over the land, has made a transformation, and is now a devoted adherent of Henry George's doctrines. Recently, a meeting was called to give him an opportunity to make new converts to the great anti-poverty faith. More than one-half of the audience consisted of Hungarians who could not understand a word of English. Local jokers purposely secured the attendance of these intelligent citizens. The speaker harangued them for a long time, and they apparently enjoyed the show and applauded him. It was rare sport to those who understood the situation. So well satisfied was the orator, that he will address another similar audience soon.

An Evil that is Growing Worse.

The selling of cigarettes is a business which must be curtailed because it is shamefully abused. It is as much abused in Bellefonte as any other place as is proven by the scores of very small boys who are puffing away at the little white-stemmed articles. The legislature, last winter, endeavored to regulate the practice, but, unfortunately, we believe the attempt was a failure, and now the practice is becoming radically worse. The sons of parents who do not wish their boys to smoke the poisonous things buy them and go off to the woods to smoke them. Reports have recently been published of many boys being refused admission to military academies because they smoke cigarettes. The death of one boy is directly traceable to the practice. But it is increasing in extent. The dealers, for their own good, should regulate the selling of cigarettes, as they are doing much harm.

Important Changes in Progress.

Improvements of importance are in progress to the Episcopal church building. The way the building is located places the front part of the basement, or Sunday-School room, quite a distance beneath the surface of the ground. This has rendered it, in the opinion of some, quite damp. This ground is now being excavated sufficiently to place that part of the basement above ground. The excavation will be to a depth of six inches lower than the floor, and the improvement in the way of making it less damp will be all that can be desired.

Don't Send Them to Us.

Several parties have sent to us the coupons for the Fredrica jacket offered as a present to our subscribers. They should not do this. Send the order direct to Demorest's Monthly Magazine, No. 15, East 14th street, New York, not forgetting to enclose a 2-cent stamp, and also mark, as directed in the order, the size wanted.

—Mr. Chas. Cook of the Centre county bank, just completed an important business transaction in the interest of the school board of Philipsburg. He negotiated $20,000 worth of school bonds for the board at 4 per cent. He has been very successful of late in transactions of that character, and is to be congratulated on his skill as a financier.

Personal Pencilings.

Rev. William Laurie, D. D., came home on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Harvey Hile, of Juniata Mines, spent Sunday in Bellefonte.

Mrs. Whitmore, of Philadelphia, is visiting friends in Bellefonte.

Messrs. William Singer and Thomas Lucas went to Howard Friday morning.

Rev. W. A. Trostle has been installed pastor of the Boalsburg Lutheran church.

Mr. Robert Larimer, of Clearfield, is at present riding horse-back in Bellefonte.

Mr. Clifford Thomas, wife and child, of New York City, are at present in Bellefonte.

Mr. Harry Keller, who is now engaged in Harrisburg, was an arrival in town on Wednesday evening.

Mr. W. F. Williamson, of Philadelphia, was a guest at Mr. Frank Montgomery's house on Sunday.

Our excellent and honored friend, Mr. John T. Johnston, now of Harrisburg, is spending a few days in town.

Mr. T. J. Mingle, of Fort Scott, Kansas, arrived in Bellefonte Monday morning to visit his brother, Mr. A. C. Mingle.

Miss Jennie Lukenbach, daughter of Mr. A. Lukenbach, came home on Saturday evening after an extended absence.

Mr. and Mrs. George L. Potter departed Thursday morning for a week's stay at Lakeside House, Eaglesmere, Sullivan county, Pa.

Mr. Rolf Harvey, of Chester county, who has been a guest at the home of Mrs. H. K. Hicks, on Linn street, departed on Monday.

Miss Bigony, of Lock Haven, who has been a guest, during the past two weeks, at the home of Mr. Milton Furey, departed Friday morning.

Mr. James E. Keenan, of Tuscumbia, Alabama, has recently been visiting in this place, his mother and sister being residents of our borough.

Miss Maggie Cessna, who has been a guest of her brother, Mr. Frank Cessna, and his family, returned to her home in Bedford on Tuesday of last week.

Mrs. Hassall and Miss Hassall, of Philadelphia, the mother and sister, respectively, of Mrs. Frank Montgomery, were arrivals on the 5 o'clock train on Wednesday, to remain a week.

Mrs. Stavely and her daughter, Miss Helen, and Miss Mary Augusta Keltchner, all of Milton, Pa., who have been visiting at the home of Mrs. Eliza Curtin, departed on Thursday morning.

Mrs. Elizabeth Petriken, of High St., one of the most aged and venerable residents of Bellefonte, is reported to be in extremely feeble condition. Fears are entertained that she will not survive much longer.

Miss Straub, of Altoona, and Miss Young, of Hollidaysburg, who have been visiting among friends here, departed for their respective homes, Thursday afternoon, having thoroughly enjoyed their stay in Bellefonte.

Mr. Willis I. Fleming, after quite a long absence from town, is at home again. During his absence he has not lost his interest in base ball, although the nine which claims his affections has met with some reverses, and that, too, when he was a spectator. Perhaps the news to-day is more satisfactory. "How's New York, anyhow; Willis?"

On Monday, Miss Mollie Dowling, a bright and attractive young lady, who is a compositor in this office, and her friend, Miss Annie McAffrey, one of the accomplished teachers in the public schools, departed for a two weeks visit. We believe Miss McAffrey will tarry in Lock Haven while Miss Dowling will go to Renovo. If the young gentlemen in Renovo succeed in resisting the winning smiles of the latter—well, there's no danger of that.

There will certainly be a vacancy for a few days at the home of Mr. William Shortlidge. During the past two weeks it has been made cheerful and lively with the presence of guests. On Tuesday the guests departed, and also the younger members of the family. Some go to Williams' Grove, others to Westport and the guests return to their home. Mr. John Walker, the bookkeeper at McCalmont's, was a member of the party who went away. He will return in a day or two.

Dr. Tobin, of Stormstown, looked at court last week until he became weary of it and then hurried home to practice medicine. The Doctor is an active politician and considerable of a joker, so he manages to make political work not only effective, but also mirthful and entertaining. The Doctor is a member of the new order of Odd Fellowship organized there, and we believe was the only resident of that community who was an Odd Fellow before the society in that place was organized.

Prof. Swithin C. Shortlidge, A. B., A. M., has been the guest of his brother, Mr. William Shortlidge, during the past few days. Prof. Shortlidge is principal of the Media Academy at Media, Pa., a very excellent school for young men and boys. He is a magnificient looking gentleman and an unusually successful instructor, as the high reputation of his school attests. He is a graduate of Harvard College. We understand that his visit here was also to renew his acquaintance with several of his patrons who reside in this vicinity.

Personal Pencilings.

Miss Bella Rankin, of this place, is visiting friends in Renovo.

Mr. George Tome, of Jersey Shore, is a guest at the home of Mrs. D. G. Bush.

Miss Laura Rankin, of Philadelphia, is a guest at the home of James H. Rankin, Esq.

Mr. P. Welsh, of Philadelphia, architect for the new Arcade building, visited Bellefonte on Tuesday.

Master Richard McClain, a son of James A. McClain, of East Curtin street, is visiting friends at State College.

Mr. John Weaver, of Hannah Furnace, spent about all of last week in Bellefonte, serving his country as a juror.

Mr. W. R. Miller, of Philadelphia, is now in Bellefonte on one of his regular business trips.

Miss Young, of Philadelphia, is the guest of her cousin, Miss Devling. She came to attend the wedding this morning.

Miss Maitland, Miss Mary Bradley and Mrs. Arthur Taylor went to Eagleville on Tuesday to spend the day with Miss Leathers.

Mr. C. P. Hilder, the painter, and his agreeable family are thinking seriously of moving to California. Hope they will decide not to do so.

Miss Amanda Tome, of Jersey Shore, a very agreeable lady, who frequently visits her sister, Mrs. Bush, is now enjoying the hospitality of Mrs. B's mansion.

Miss Laura Russel, who presides at the Lock Haven telephone exchange, is enjoying a vacation, her place being temporarily filled by Miss Shearer, of Milton.

Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Reynolds departed on Tuesday for a pleasant trip. They first go to Lancaster to attend the fair, then to Philadelphia and then to Atlantic City.

We understand that Mr. John Rankin, formerly of this place, and who is now in California, is growing quite fleshy under the influence of invigorating climate and high living.

Mr. Chas. Stow, who has been a newspaper man of considerable distinction, being at one time editor of the Erie Observer, is at present representing P. T. Barnum's show, which will be here October 14. He was in Bellefonte Tuesday morning.

Mr. Charles Everett, of Lemont, was in Bellefonte Tuesday. He conducts both hardware and drug business in Lemont and his business connections having increased so much of late he very seldom has time visit the county seat. We are glad to hear that he is prosperous.

Mr. Edmond Shortlidge, son of Dr. Shortlidge, of Wilmington, Delaware, a gentleman who has been visiting at the home of his uncle, Mr. Wm. Shortlidge, departed Tuesday. He expected to remain here only two weeks, but the visit has been so pleasant as to prolong it a month or more.

Mr. Wm. Jones informed us Tuesday morning that he will depart, next week, to Pasadena, California, where an excellent position has been secured for him, and where he hopes his health will be benefited. He will sell his house and all his property before leaving. He expects, within a month, to have all things prepared for his family, who will then join him. We regret to hear of Mr. Jones' departure as we considered him a very necessary adjunct to the proper conduct of the Bellefonte municipality, and he has our best wishes for his success in the land of fine climate and gold.

—The camp on Purdue's mountain continues and becomes more delightful as the days elapse. There are serious apprehensions that the party will become so wedded to that sort of a life that they will not care to return to this small centre of industry and activity. They are safely protected from the cold weather in a substantial house and are surrounded by comforts, even to the cow which supplies them plentifully with fresh milk. They may take a notion to return home to-day (Thursday,) but they are so changed, roughing it, that their most intimate friends will not know them. For instance, we saw Will Brew Monday. Such a change!

—On Saturday evening a man passed along Allegheny street, where four small boys were playing. The man carried a bottle. The boys, in their exciting sport, ran against him and there was a crash. The bottle had been knocked from the man's hand, which crashed on the pavement, the liquid contents being splashed in every direction. The man lamented greatly over the loss of his kerosene, but all who inhaled the odor arising from it lost their sympathy for him. The smell of alcohol will linger in that vicinity perhaps for many days.

—The congregations in the churches of Bellefonte are smaller than we have ever known them to be in any other place. There are only two large church buildings in the town; four of what may be termed medium size and two quite small. They should be filled every Sunday at both services. To those who are accustomed to crowded churches the spectacle of empty pews is discouraging.

MARRIED.

BEIGHTOL—ZIMMERMAN.—By J. B. Newcomer, J. P., at his residence in Burnside township, on the 17th day of August, 1887, Mr. James Beightol, of Moshannon, and Miss Amanda Zimmerman, of Burnside township.
